CAMPULUNG TAKEN BY GERMANS AND PASS IS OPENED

Berlin Reports 17 Officers and 1,200 Men Captured by the Bavarian Troops

ALLIES LOOK TO RUSS

Russian Offensive in the Carpathians Taken to Be Effort to Interfere with German Plans

BERLIN, via Sayville Wireless, Nov. 30.—Campulung, Rumania, has been captured by German forces, the official statement declared Thursday.

The statement pointed out that by capture of this Rumanian city, the road across the Toersburg pass was now opened for the Teutonic forces. Seventeen officers and 1,200 men were captured by the Bavarian troops. Seven cannons and much baggage was also taken.

Field Marshal von Mackensen's army is still advancing along the Danube, the statement asserted.

During attacks against Rumanians, Siegholstein, Bueckeburg and Bavarian reserve rifles under Major Aschauer distinguished themselves, the report continued.

Since crossing the Danube the German army has captured forty-five officers, 2,421 men of other ranks, two heavy cannons, six field cannons, seven small cannons, seven machine guns, and thirty-two ammunition carts.

In the forest of the Carpathians and in Moldavia the Russians returned their attacks "without obtaining important results," the war office asserted. "The enemy suffered heavy losses and had to be content with small local advantages."

Depend on Russia

LONDON, Nov. 30.—The allies are pinning their faith on the Russians to extricate Rumania from the German war pincers.

The Russian thrust at Kirilbaba was regarded here as the best possible strategic move, since, if successful, it would force a straightening out of the German lines permitting the Rumanians to gain back a goodly part of Transylvania. If the German line was not straightened out under these conditions, it would be in danger of a strong flanking movement.

Artillery in West

PARIS, Nov. 30.—Artillery fighting in the Aisnecourt and Pressoire sectors was the only activity along the western front reported in Thursday's official statement.

Bombardment of Prilep, held by the Bulgarian-German forces on the Macedonian front, by allied aeroplanes was announced in the official statement. Rain and fog are hindering operations in the fighting.

Haig Reports Small Firing

LONDON, Nov. 30.—Machine gun and rifle fire from the German trenches was active in the Guedecourt sector, General Sir Douglas Haig reported Thursday.

Hand to Hand Fighting

BERLIN, via Sayville, Nov. 30.—Fighting in some places hand to hand, German troops repulsed an enemy attack in the Ypres bend, the German official statement Thursday announced.

THINK TARNOWSKI WILL GET PERMIT FOLLOWING NOTE

BY ROBERT J. BENDER

(United Press Staff Correspondent.) WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—Officials believed on Thursday the allied governments will take the hints of their ambassadors here and permit Count Tarnowski, the new Austrian ambassador, to come to Washington without "unusual interference."

It was believed Great Britain and France would grant the suggestion made by this government in representations sent late Wednesday to "consider" the case. These representations, it was said, were not a flat request for safe conduct of the new envoy, but a reminder that failure to justify Tarnowski's right of passage—the right of sovereign nations to exchange ambassadors being inalienable—would make a distinctly bad impression upon public opinion here.

BANK IS CHARTERED

MADISON, Wis., Nov. 30.—The state bank commissioner on Saturday issued a charter to the Farmers' and Merchants' bank of Independence, Trempealeau county. The capital stock of the bank is $20,000. F. A. Hotchkiss is president and Paul T. Schulze cashier.

ANNOUNCES VOLUNTARY RAISE

GREEN BAY, Wis., Nov. 30.—The Green Bay Specialty company on Saturday announced an increase in wages of 15 per cent to all employees. The manager, in speaking of the increase, said the directors had taken the step as a result of high living cost.

REFUGEES TRAIN FROM CHIHUAHUA FAILS TO ARRIVE

Relatives and Friends of Six Americans and Other Foreigners Wait Anxiously at Station Through Night

AMERICANS' FATE MISTY

Reports of Train Make No Mention of Americans Although Other Foreigners Are Mentioned

EL PASO, Tex., Nov. 30.—At an early hour Thursday a train load of refugees from Chihuahua City, expected at Juarez since noon Wednesday, had not yet reached the border. Relatives of the six Americans and the German and English residents of the fallen city waited at the station throughout the night. The telegraph line was open and it was announced every few hours that the train was due at once. Although nothing definite was reported, it is believed all the foreign consuls who were in Chihuahua City are on the train.

Whether any American escaped is questioned. In reports reaching the border the presence of other foreigners on the train is mentioned, but nothing is said of Americans.

Carranza officers at Juarez declared Thursday the tracks had been torn up below the border town to prevent Villa capturing a train and coming northward.

Another report here said that Villistas went to the cathedral after the fall of Chihuahua City and desecrated the grave of an American captain buried there in 1845 when Colonel Doniphan captured the city.

FUNERAL OF LATE AUSTRIAN EMPEROR HELD IN VIENNA

Body of Franz Josef to Be Laid to Rest in Vault in the Ancient Chapel of the Capuchines

POMP MARKS CEREMONIES

All the Regal Show and Pomp of Medieval Customs Attend Last Rites When Body Joins Ancestors

LONDON, Nov. 30.—Crypt number 133, in the vault of the age-darkened chapel of the Capuchin Fathers, in Vienna, will Thursday night hold the mortal remains of the late Emperor of Austria-Hungary. Dispatches from Vienna Thursday said preparations for the funeral were being completed with all the regal show and pomp of medieval customs that rigid etiquette of the most formal court in the world stipulates. Franz Josef was to take his place among the Hapsburg dead late in the day. The funeral procession which will bear his body to the grave where he joins his ancestors was to start at 4:30 from the Hofburg palace. The emperor's last resting place is a short three blocks distant from the ancient Hofburg state palace, through crooked, narrow streets, in some places less than sixteen feet wide.

German Princes Attend

BERLIN, via Sayville Wireless, Nov. 30.—All German princes were to be in attendance at the funeral in Vienna of the late Emperor Franz Josef.

GOTHAMITES ENABLED TO EAT TURKEY THROUGH WAR OF HOUSEWIVES

NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—New York proceeded to the important business of the day Thursday, thanks to the stubbornness of the city's housewives. If the women had not been stubborn, New York would not have eaten turkey—really could not have afforded it. As it was the women held out until Wednesday night, many thousands of them, and got the boy-cotted bird at 33 to 35 cents instead of the 40 or 43 cents a pound the dealers were demanding before the fight began.

Many women, not admitting the war was over, kept up their price resistance even until Thursday and in consequence got the national bird at prices well under those of last night.

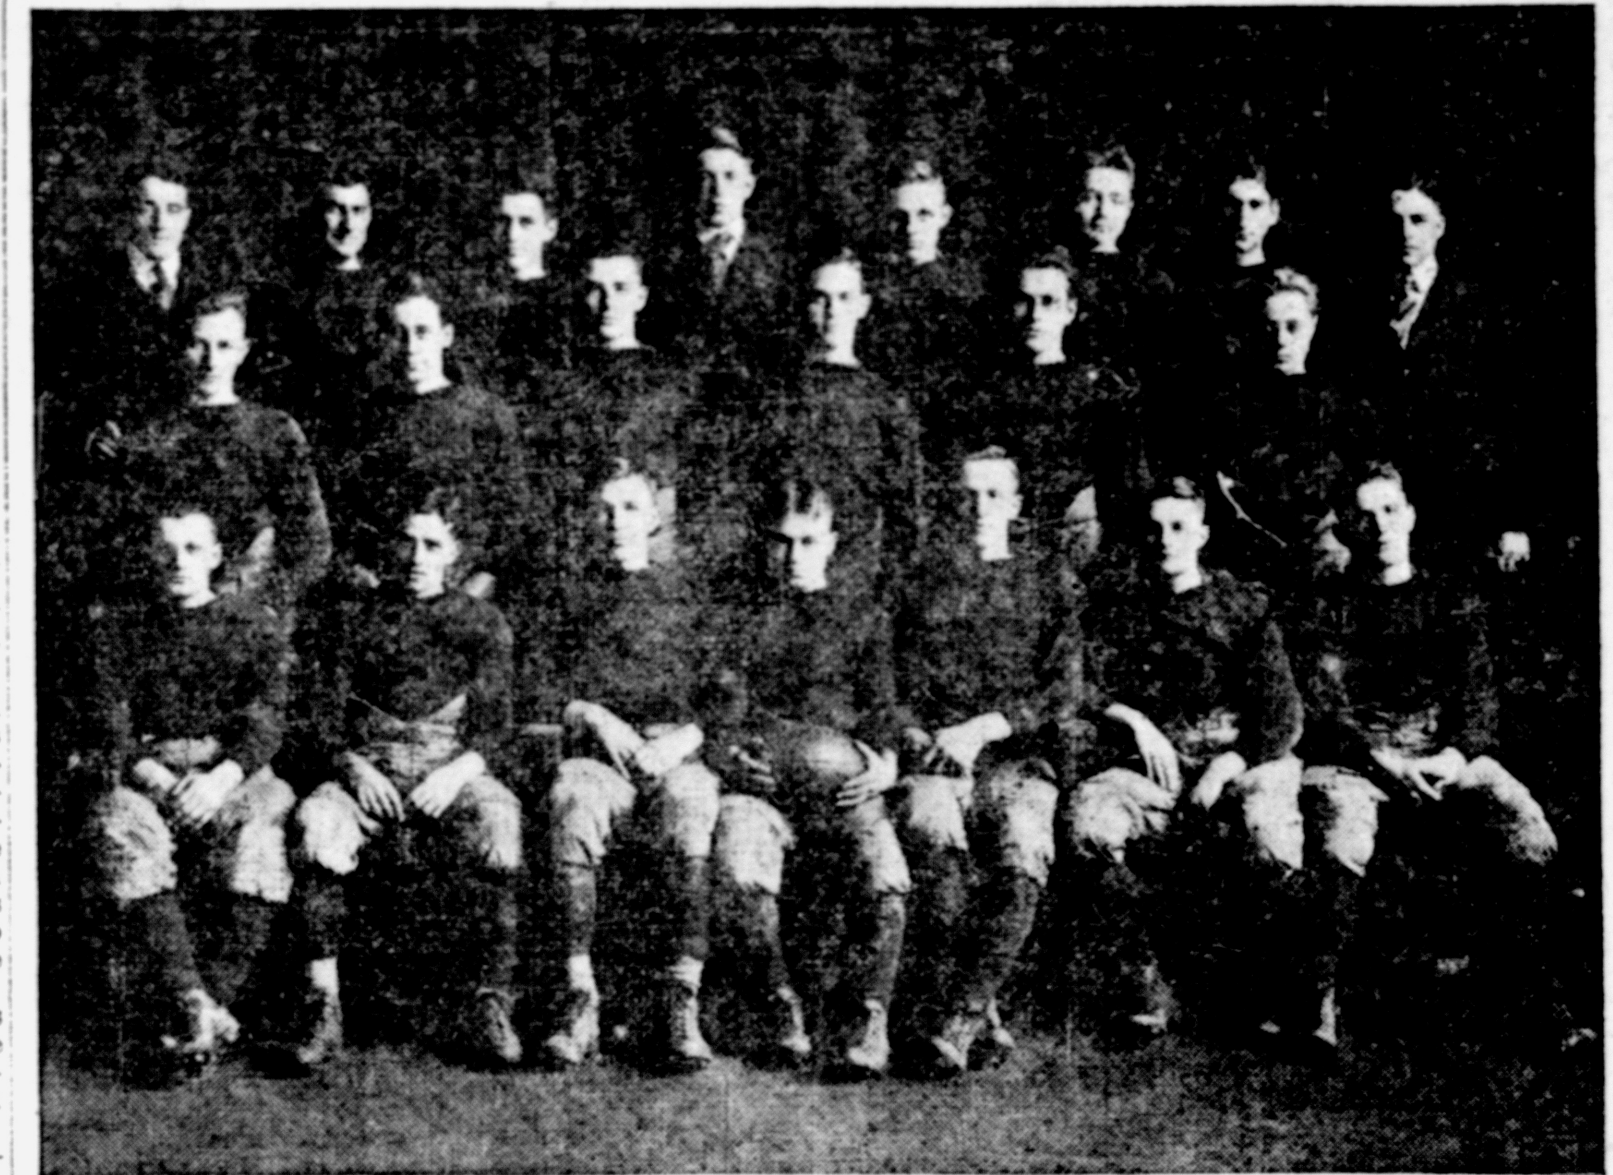

ENGLAND LOSES 18,632 MEN DURING NOVEMBER

LONDON, Nov. 30.—England lost 18,632 men killed in the great war in the month of November. Casualty lists issued Thursday showed a total of 74,615 in dead, wounded and missing and classified this loss as follows:

Killed—Officers, 811; men, 17,741; total, 18,632.
Wounded—Officers, 1,450; men, 47,613; total, 49,063.
Missing—Officers, 163; men, 6,757; total, 6,920.

These figures include all military, naval and colonial losses.

LA CROSSE CONFIDENT BEFORE TURKEY DAY STATE TITLE CLASH

School spirit which blazed as enthusiastically as the mammoth bonfire which the students later heaped up on Market square marked the alumni football rally held Wednesday evening in the La Crosse theater. Old grads, faculty members and students delivered themselves of short, peppy talks predicting victory and full of determination to bring home the state title and the students and alumni who filled the house rocked the roof with a series of yells and songs under the vigorous leadership of Myron S. Locke, alumni-rooster-king of the class of '09.

Loose Timber Grabbed
It was Locke, whose profession is that of advertising manager of Doerflingers, who told the bunch of students about a huge pile of boxes in the alley behind that establishment, and within a few minutes after the meeting that pile, and every loose piece of timber in a radius of a few blocks had gone to swell the pyre.

It made a magnificent blaze, the flames leaping thirty feet in the air and lighting up Market square like day. Around it the high school people romped and yelled like a crew of Indians. The fire was so hot that the ring of the students could not get within fifty feet of the pile. After the excitement had subsided and most of the students had taken their eruptive ways homeward the fire department trotted over and squirted the embers into extinction.

The meeting at the theater was in active session long before the curtain went up on the group of old gridiron heroes and prominent alumni who occupied the stage. The students cheered and whistled and clapped until the band came in, and great merriment was occasioned by the appearance before the curtain of Myron Locke, who singled bashful alumni from the audience, with the help of the students, and persuaded them to come upon the stage. When the curtain finally had risen and "La Crosse High School" had been roared by a thousand enthusiastic throats which drowned out the band, Locke led the bunch in a vociferous yell and produced a horse pistol with which to execute immediately any person who dared predict defeat.

Spence Leads Off

District Attorney Otto M. Schlabach, president of the Alumni Association, started the oratorical ball rolling and introduced Harry Spence, father of La Crosse football. Spence stripped his coat and produced a referee's whistle, with which he made first down and aroused big enthusiasm. In quick succession James Thompson and George Bunge spoke for the alumni, and then Schlabach turned the meeting over to Prof. Hasset, principal of the high school, and "Ozy" Weiss, a senior. Then the audience took a hand, and in turn insisted upon a few words from Tad Brindley, Boots Weimar, P. E. Schaefer, assistant coach, and "SI" Ziesler, all but Schaefer famous football heroes of days past. A storm of yells also brought B. E. McCormick, superintendent of schools, to the footlights for a few words, and the noise was deafening when Locke singled out Dr. Edward Evans, and prevailed upon him to come to the stage.

Dr. Evans had a little medical advice which he delivered free to the crowd. He told them all to come to the football game, assuring them it was an excellent digestive measure for Thanksgiving day dinners. There was a little more music, and a deal more noise, and then the theater crowd adjourned to Market square, where the bonfire was soon blazing merrily.

Expect Huge Crowd

Indications at noon were that a record breaking crowd would cram

THE EDGERTON TEAM

the bleachers at Normal field for the big game. The high school figure was 5,000, at the lowest estimate, based on the number of advance tickets sold, and it was believed that possibly half as many more people would be attracted by the Turkey day game with Edgerton. A special train was to get in at 1 o'clock, bringing some two hundred wild-eyed fans and the Edgerton team, and it was apparent that the downtown boys would have the best aggregation of home-town roosters that any visiting team has ever brought to La Crosse.

Edgerton comes to the city supremely confident, with a big, rangy team inspired by an unbroken string of victories. There was any amount of Edgerton money available when the down-state train arrived Thursday morning, and by noon it was estimated that between $3,000 and $4,000 had been wagered on the game. All the bets were placed at even money. There was no lack of La Crosse coin forthcoming from enthusiastic alumni.

School Confident
"LA CROSSE — OF COURSE YOU'LL WIN."
This is the spirit which is felt by every member of the high school concerning the Thanksgiving game. The team is in excellent shape, Bunge is back in uniform, and after the snappy signal practice Wednesday night, local fans have no doubt that the championship of Wisconsin will remain in La Crosse for the third straight year.

A monster mass meeting was held after school in the auditorium Wednesday afternoon. Myron Locke, cheer leader in the "good old days," was back with the under-graduates and invited the school to attend the mass meeting given by the alumni at the La Crosse theater. "Putch" Toland led the cheers and succeeded in getting so much noise out of the student body that grave fear was entertained whether the roof would stay on the building.

Mr. Hasset, who has charge of the reception of the Edgerton team when they come in on the Milwaukee fast mail at 10:40 and escort them to the Stoddard hotel.

Bearmore is Here
Mr. Clifford R. Bearmore, who was formerly at the head of the boys' department of the Y. M. C. A. here, and who is now located at Janesville, told of the wonderful interference of the Edgerton team, and said that he was afraid to go back south if La Crosse should lose for he is about the only person in that part of the state whose sympathies are with the red and black.

"Tubby" Keeler, who played on the championship 1910 eleven also talked. Later in the afternoon a social hour was held in the gymnasium. The music was excellent and the floor was thronged. More people were in attendance than at any social hour of the year.

LET CONTRACTS FOR FOUR BATTLESHIPS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—Contracts for two battleships were awarded Wednesday afternoon by Secretary Daniels to the New York Ship Building company and two others to the New York News Ship Building company.

The contracts were given with the understanding that minor points shall be adjusted later. The new vessels will have electric drive.

Each ship will cost slightly less than $11,000,000 with delivery in forty and thirty-nine months.

WORKERS FAVOR PROHIBITION

GREE BAY, Wis., Nov. 30.—The Fox River Valley Efficiency league on Friday started taking a straw vote on "dry and wet" sentiment in the state. In Kaukauna railroad shops the vote stood 17 prohibition and 6 wet.

CONGRESS WILL SPEND MUCH TIME ON COSTS PROBLEM

Embargo, Damper on Speculation and Investigation of Costs Some of Remedies Advanced

GREAT FIGHT IS PREDICTED

President and Cabinet and Urban Congress Contingent to Be Opposed by Rural Solons

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—Evidence continued to pile up here Thursday that congress is going to spend considerable of its precious time in the coming short session looking for a high cost of living panacea.

Here are some of the remedies which early arrivals at the capital have suggested and which, they say, they will push in resolutions to be introduced:

An embargo on all foodstuffs. A law compelling those who store foodstuffs for speculative purposes to dispose of 10 per cent of their holdings every thirty days, at prevailing prices.

Investigation of the entire question of high prices either by the federal trade commission or a special joint congressional committee which will make recommendation suggested by its findings.

That the president and his cabinet will strongly favor the last suggestions, senators and representatives say, is a foregone conclusion.

The president has discussed the high cost of living frequently with his cabinet advisors and he is taking deep interest in the work of the post-office, commerce and agriculture departments along this line.

The embargo idea, besides having Representative Fitzgerald of New York to lead it, will have the strong backing of many other congressmen. Representative Jeff McLemore said he will favor it, and that he has interviewed or heard by mail from many others who will do the same. However, no food embargo will be established without a bitter legislative fight. Many urban representatives are expected to line up for it, but representatives from rural districts have announced they will fight it to the last. Republican Minority Leader Mann and Representative Borland, Missouri, both with strong followings, believe an embargo is not what is wanted.

If Representative McLemore thinks a food embargo will fail of passage, he will strongly urge the second suggestion mentioned above, which would hit hard at storage speculators.

Borland wants a congressional or federal trade commission investigation.

GERMAN JOURNALS ASSAIL WILSON ON SUBSEA QUESTION

AMSTERDAM, Nov. 30.—Accusing President Wilson of "attempting to make submarine warfare impossible," German newspapers received here Thursday contain bitter comment against America's "un-neutrality." They declare Germany intends following her own chosen course on the submarine matters, despite calumny and threats.

"The German people," says the Cologne Volks-Zeitung, "will decline to accept President Wilson as a mediator if he re-opens the submarine question. He is attempting to make submarine warfare impossible. If the submarine issue comes to a focus again it will not be Germany which has broken pledges, but America, for Ambassador Gerard promised that America would keep quiet if Germany fulfilled her promises. This she has done."

"Germany will win the war despite America's un-neutrality," said the Cologne Gazette. "We intend to consult only our own interests respecting submarine warfare, and will not allow American threats or flattery to influence us."

CARDINAL IS REFUSED PERMIT TO TELL POPE OF DEPORTATION, REPORT

AMSTERDAM, Nov. 30.—General von Bissing, German governor of Belgium, has refused Cardinal Mercier permission to leave for Rome to relate to the pope the circumstances of the Belgian deportations, according to a report Thursday from Belgium.

$23,000 WORTH OF BIRD FOR SOLDIERS

DALLAS, Texas, Nov. 30.—Wilson & Company, big meat and produce agents, furnished $23,000 worth of turkeys for Uncle Sam's soldiers on the border, it became known here Thursday. The company, which has its headquarters in Chicago, distributed the birds through its El Paso branch.

The government paid an average of twenty-three cents a pound.

CHURCH, TURKEY AND FOOTBALL DIVIDE INTEREST

Union Services in Churches Lead Off Observance of Thanksgiving Day in La Crosse

BIG DINNER AT MISSION

Estimated That 300 Baskets of Goodies Have Been Sent to Poor by Charitable Workers

Turkey Day in La Crosse
Union services at First Methodist, First German Methodist and Scandinavian Baptist churches in the morning.

La Crosse meets Edgerton high for state football championship at 2:45 this afternoon. Special programs at all motion theaters.

Two hundred and ninety-five years ago a handful of Pilgrims in New England offered up thanks for their harvest. La Crosse is celebrating the anniversary of that first Thanksgiving day, along with every city and hamlet in the United States, with probably more enthusiasm than ever before.

Marking the day here are union church services, held under the auspices of the La Crosse church federation, entertainments, the championship football game of the state high schools, to be played between Edgerton and La Crosse, and feasts of turkey and other Thanksgiving day fowl in every home in the city.

Three Union Services

Practically every Protestant congregation in La Crosse met in union services in the morning. With Rev. J. E. Watson delivering the sermon, the First Methodist, First Congregational, West Avenue Methodist, First Presbyterian, First Baptist and St. Paul's Universalist churches gathered at the First Methodist church.

The First German Methodist and German Baptist churches met at the First German Methodist church, Seventh and Ferry streets. Rev. J. L. Panzlau, pastor of the latter congregation, delivered the sermon of the morning.

Union services in North La Crosse were held at the Scandinavian Baptist church, corner of Charles and Logan streets.

The services were impressive, each pastor of the participating churches taking some part in the devotions.

Big Feast at Mission

One of the most happy events of Thanksgiving day in La Crosse this year is a dinner at the Rescue Mission on Pearl street. Seventy-five homeless men, and the poor of the city, will eat a dinner which will not be greatly excelled on the best tables of the land. They will be joined by a score of workers at the Mission. The mission hall has been converted into a large dining room. Long tables were spread early in the day, and the preparation of the feast begun.

Under the supervision of D. C. Dewey, superintendent, mission workers carried a score of richly laden baskets of food to homes of the poor in La Crosse on Wednesday afternoon. This, in fact, was done by several charitable organizations, and it is estimated that upwards of three hundred baskets, many of them containing a turkey, all of them a fowl of some sort, and everything necessary for a good meal, were given away.

Fine Football Weather

The day dawned as clear as crystal although cold, and football enthusiasts were happy, for the weather assured a record-breaking attendance at the Turkey day scrap for the championship of the state, which begins at 2:45 in the afternoon between Edgerton and La Crosse high schools. The game will be played at Normal Field.

Hundreds of people, both young and old, were planning to make the events the chief feature of the day, next to the annual dinners.

Local theaters have planned special programs for the holiday. "The Princess Pat," at the La Crosse theater, performances of which will be given both in the afternoon and evening, promises to be popular. All motion picture theaters have some of the best bills of the season.

GERMANY READY FOR HONORABLE PEACE, SAYS CHANCELLOR

BERLIN, via Sayville Wireless, Nov. 30.—Germany is ready for a peace which will guarantee her existence and her future—but since Germany's enemies are not yet desirous of peace, Germany will go confidently forward in war.

So declared the imperial chancellor, Theodor von Bethmann-Hollweg, in the reichstag Thursday, introducing the new bill for a national auxiliary service—the "mobilization of civilians."

PICKFORD PLAYS TO BE FEWER AND OF HIGH STANDARD

When Mary Pickford comes to this city in the near future as the screen star of "Less Than the Dust" she will appear for the first time in a production made by her own company, a corporation bearing her own name. It is her purpose now to make but a limited number of pictures each season but these, she says, will be master works and produced at an unlimited cost. She has carried out her announcement in the presentation of "Less Than the Dust," which is said to be the finest and most artistic blending of her personality with scenario and story that has yet been accomplished. It will show her as a little castaway in an East India city who, though of English birth, has been reared among the natives of the lowest caste. It will have any number of striking scenes and plenty of thrill in a battle between British troops and natives.

BIG DEMAND FOR "PRINCESS" SEATS

If the box office can forecast success for a theatrical production, "The Princess Pat," introduced at the La Crosse theatre on Thanksgiving day by John Cort, will prove one of the winners of the present season. Predictions from that quarter are that a large audience will witness the afternoon performance and that the

"S. R. O." sign will be hung in the lobby for the evening entertainment. The matinee will not begin until 3 o'clock, as the La Crosse theater management is thoughtful of late dinners on the national holiday.

"The Princess Pat" was written by Victor Herbert, famous orchestra director and Henry Blossom. Herbert brings a big portion of his musical organization to La Crosse with the stage production, and as far as the musical part of the performance is concerned, it will not be out-ranked in La Crosse this season.

Blanche Duffield, Oscar Figman, Al Shean and Alexander Clark, supported by a pretty chorus and a famous cast, appear. Ralph Riggs and Katherine Wichele are to entertain for a few minutes with a series of dances.

BESSIE BARRISCALE TRIES MALE ATTIRE

Bessie Barriscale tries to impersonate a man in "A Corner in Colleens," her latest Triangle picture which will form the Majestic theater's attraction for the balance of the week, beginning Thursday. The entire play is one big pollocking piece of a fun and frolic throughout. It is the story of a maid of Erin, who plays all manner of jokes on her ardent lover. She never gives him a moment's peace and majestic patrons won't have a moment to take their eyes off the screen. The film demonstrates Miss Barriscale's rare ability to play the lightest parts as well as the heavy ones for which she is famous.

The production also brings the well known Charles Ray back to La Crosse. He takes the part of Taylor, wealthy owner of the farm in Ireland on which Bessie, or the chief colleen, lives with her mother and several small sisters.

DEMOCRATIC FOLK OF SWEDEN KEEPS NATION AT PEACE

Influence of Preponderantly Pro-German Ruling Classes Balanced by Opinions of the Common People

BY WM. PHILIP EDMES
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

STOCKHOLM, Nov. 7.—(By Mail.)—Despite the fact that the Queen of Sweden is German and the Crown Princess, her daughter-in-law, is English, it is said they never have clashed over the war.

The queen of Sweden, formerly princess of Baden, has the reputation of being one of the most intelligent women in Sweden. From the start of the war she has been a center of pro-German sentiment. But the crown princess, formerly Princess Margaret of Connaught, is said to be the most tactful of women, and the combination of intelligence and tact has prevented rupture between mother-in-law and son's wife—a relation notoriously hard to maintain.

It is said here that for some weeks now the queen is no longer as active as formerly she was reported to be. Until some three months ago she had as her right bower her kinsman, son of a daughter bymorganatic marriage, Prince Douglas of Ludwig of Bavaria, and therefore as German as she, his death was a distinct loss to pro-Germans. As March of the court his influence was great, and it was through him mostly that the queen exerted an influence on the politics of Sweden as they bore upon the war.

The University of Upsala, oldest and most influential in the country, is another center of conservatism and pro-Germanism. This is perhaps because the university graduates belong to the "ruling classes" or nobility, and the nobility seems to see something menacing to itself in the destruction of the ruling nobles of Germany.

But if queen, court, army circles and the nobility, or "ruling classes" of Sweden are pro-German, why did not Sweden long ago join the war on the side of the central powers?

I asked this question of a number of men: bankers, editors and business men. Summed up the reply was this:

The bulk of the population of Sweden is democratic in the extreme. There is even a fairly strong current in Sweden favoring a republican form of government. Once a year, regularly, some one gets up in the legislature and proposes a republic. He is not howled down. He is not hanged as a traitor. He is not imprisoned for lese-majesty. To the contrary he is listened to quite as though he were proposing the building of a postoffice at Haparanda or increasing the tax on tobacco. A debate follows, a warm debate, various members of the body of lawmakers stating their views on the subject. Then comes a vote and the republic is defeated.

This shows the absolute democracy at the bottom of Sweden. The United States, too, have some influence on the national mind, though the "ruling classes" would scarcely admit it.

"The population of Sweden outside the big cities," a Swedish editor remarked, "knows more about the United States than they do about any other country. And most of them know Chicago, Minneapolis, New York and other American cities better than they do Stockholm. The reason for this is plain. Many Swedes have gone to the United States. They have met with success there. They like the country. So they write home glowing accounts of the great country, the cities and towns, and tell the folks at home how this and that is done in the states. All this has a direct influence. It may not be pressing and aggressive, but it is constant. Sweden is sure to become a republic some day. Not because it wants to copy any other nation but because the whole tendency of democracy is in that direction and Sweden, heart and soul, is democratic. I don't mean we are going to become a republic next week, by consent of the majority.

"For, believe me, the majority has its say in Sweden and perhaps that is why the queen, exceedingly intelligent though she is, and all the court officials, nobles and 'ruling classes' have not had any great influence on placing Sweden on the side of Germany. Like the United States most Swedes do not want war. And though there was danger at one time of Sweden coming in, I believe all danger is past now."

SILVER WEDDING PARTY GIVEN FOR SALEM COUPLES

WEST SALEM, Wis.—(Special.)—A silver wedding anniversary party was given for Mr. and Mrs. Louis Kirmse last Friday evening at Roberts' hall.

About 300 guests were present to show their friendship for the happy pair and to offer congratulations and best wishes.

The ladies of the Novelty club made all the arrangements for the party and furnished the refreshments.

A very interesting program occupied the greater part of the evening, though after the older ones had said good night, the young people enjoyed an hour of dancing.

The West Salem concert orchestra opened the program which was as follows:

Address—Mrs. Jessie McKee.
Saxophone solo—Prof. Gilbert.
Vocal solo—Mrs. Nichols.

furnishes of
Violin and Piano Duet—Sophia and Leona Cullman.

Dumbbell exercise—Prof. Gilbert.
Vocal solo—Mrs. Pearl Wakefield.

Male Quartet—Messrs. Oaks, Jones, Bolles and Dudley.

Piano solo—Bernice McDonald.
Address—Mrs. Ida Tilson.

Vocal duet—Misses Amanda Kitten and Violet Marshall.

"Ye Olde Tyme Wedding"—Bride, Miss Olive Cork; Maid of Honor, Miss Kuehn; Bridesmaid, Miss Bergman; Flower Girl, Miss Nichols;

Groom, Ed. Norris; Best Man, John Bender; Parson, Prof. Gilbert.

Selection—West Salem orchestra.

A box of silver presented to Mr. and Mrs. Kirmse expressed substantially the hearty good wishes of the assembled guests.

Mothers' Club Meets

The Mothers' club met last Thursday, Nov. 23 at the home of Mrs. McKee. About twenty-five ladies were present and a very helpful program was carried out. Topics as follows: "Fitness for Marriage," Mrs. Orna McEldowney; "Preparation for Parenthood," Mrs. Cornelia Dudley; "The Education of the Will," Mrs. McKee. Two solos were sung by Mrs. May Nichols. The next meeting will be held on Thursday, Dec. 14th at the home of Mrs. Guy Wakefield.

Local and Personal

Mrs. John Meyer entertained a company of her mother's friends on Friday afternoon in honor of her mother's birthday.

Mrs. F. Roumell from Bangor and Miss F. Pfaff from Mindoro were out-of-town guests at the silver wedding of Mr. and Mrs. L. Kirmse.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Swhere at Barre Mills, Sunday, Nov. 26, a girl.

Mr. A. I. Stubbs left Sunday for a business trip to the city of New York.

Mrs. Robert Taylor and Mrs. Hays Selden were business callers in La Crosse Saturday afternoon, also the Mesdames W. I. and Walter Smith.

Mr. Walter Curtiss, who has been visiting his sister, Mrs. Joe Green and has been taking special treatment in La Crosse for inflammatory reumatism, returned to his home in North Dakota on Saturday last.

Miss Jennie Dudley came home from Sparta on Saturday last, having taken formal leave of her position in the Sparta high school. She will be at home only one week, leaving on next Saturday, Dec. 2, for San Francisco, where she will embark for China.

The Woman's Mission club will not hold its meeting as usual on the first Friday of the month this week, but will be postponed for one week, owing to the proximity of Thanksgiving Day.

Rev. Witherbee of La Crosse occupied the pulpit of the Federated church last Sunday morning, Nov. 26 in the absence of the pastor, Rev. McKee, who is hunting near Westboro, Wis.

Miss Norah Johnson, who has been selling the five volume child's Bible here during the past week, reports the best sales for the book the past week, here in West Salem, that have ever been made in the history of this work. As this is an expensive work, it speaks very strongly for the kind of interest the parents here take in the welfare of their children.

There was a scarcity of autos in town on Friday and Saturday, so many of the villagers went to La Crosse to hear the Village vs. Bradley case tried.

Mrs. John Anderson of La Crosse spent Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Matt Lee.

The directors of the Co-operative Creamery association will meet in West Salem on Wednesday to consider matters to be brought before the state convention of Buttermakers that will meet in Sparta on the 5th, 6th and 7th of December.

Mr. Carlton Knudson and family moved back to their home on the farm the fore part of last week.

Mrs. Statham of La Crosse spent the week-end here with her daughter, Mrs. Gus Tofson.

The school board has issued notices to the qualified electors of Joint School District No. 6 of the town of Hamilton and Village of West Salem that a special meeting of the district will be held at the Uneceda Theater on Dec. 1 at 8 p. m. to vote on the following propositions: First, to designate a proper site for a school house, and second, to authorize the school board to make application for loans for a new building, and third, to raise by taxation the necessary funds.

Thanksgiving Day services will be held in the Norwegian Lutheran church and in the Federated church on Thursday morning at 10:30 o'clock.

Mrs. S. L. McKee gave a "wafer" breakfast for the members of the school faculty on Saturday morning, Nov. 25. Covers were laid for eleven. The Misses Margaret Bolles, Francis Coburn and Bernice McDonald assisted in serving.

In time of kidney danger. Doan's Kidney Pills are most effective.

Plenty of La Crosse evidence of their worth.

W. S. King, painter, 1701 Market street, La Crosse, says: "Often the kidney secretions were irregular and painful in passage. I suffered from backache and pains across my kidneys. I was restless and got up in the morning feeling all worn out. I used different medicines, but nothing helped me until I took Doan's Kidney Pills, procured at Erhart's Drug Store. They soon made me well. I publicly recommended Doan's Kidney Pills two years ago and I am glad to again do so."

Get Away This Winter!

Pack your grip, tell the folks goodbye, go down to the depot, buy a ticket to California—that great Out-of-doors land, which rests the weary and refreshes the weak—via the Burlington Route (the moving picture way through scenic Colorado and Salt Lake in daylight). Climb aboard, lean back, relax and watch America roll past your window.

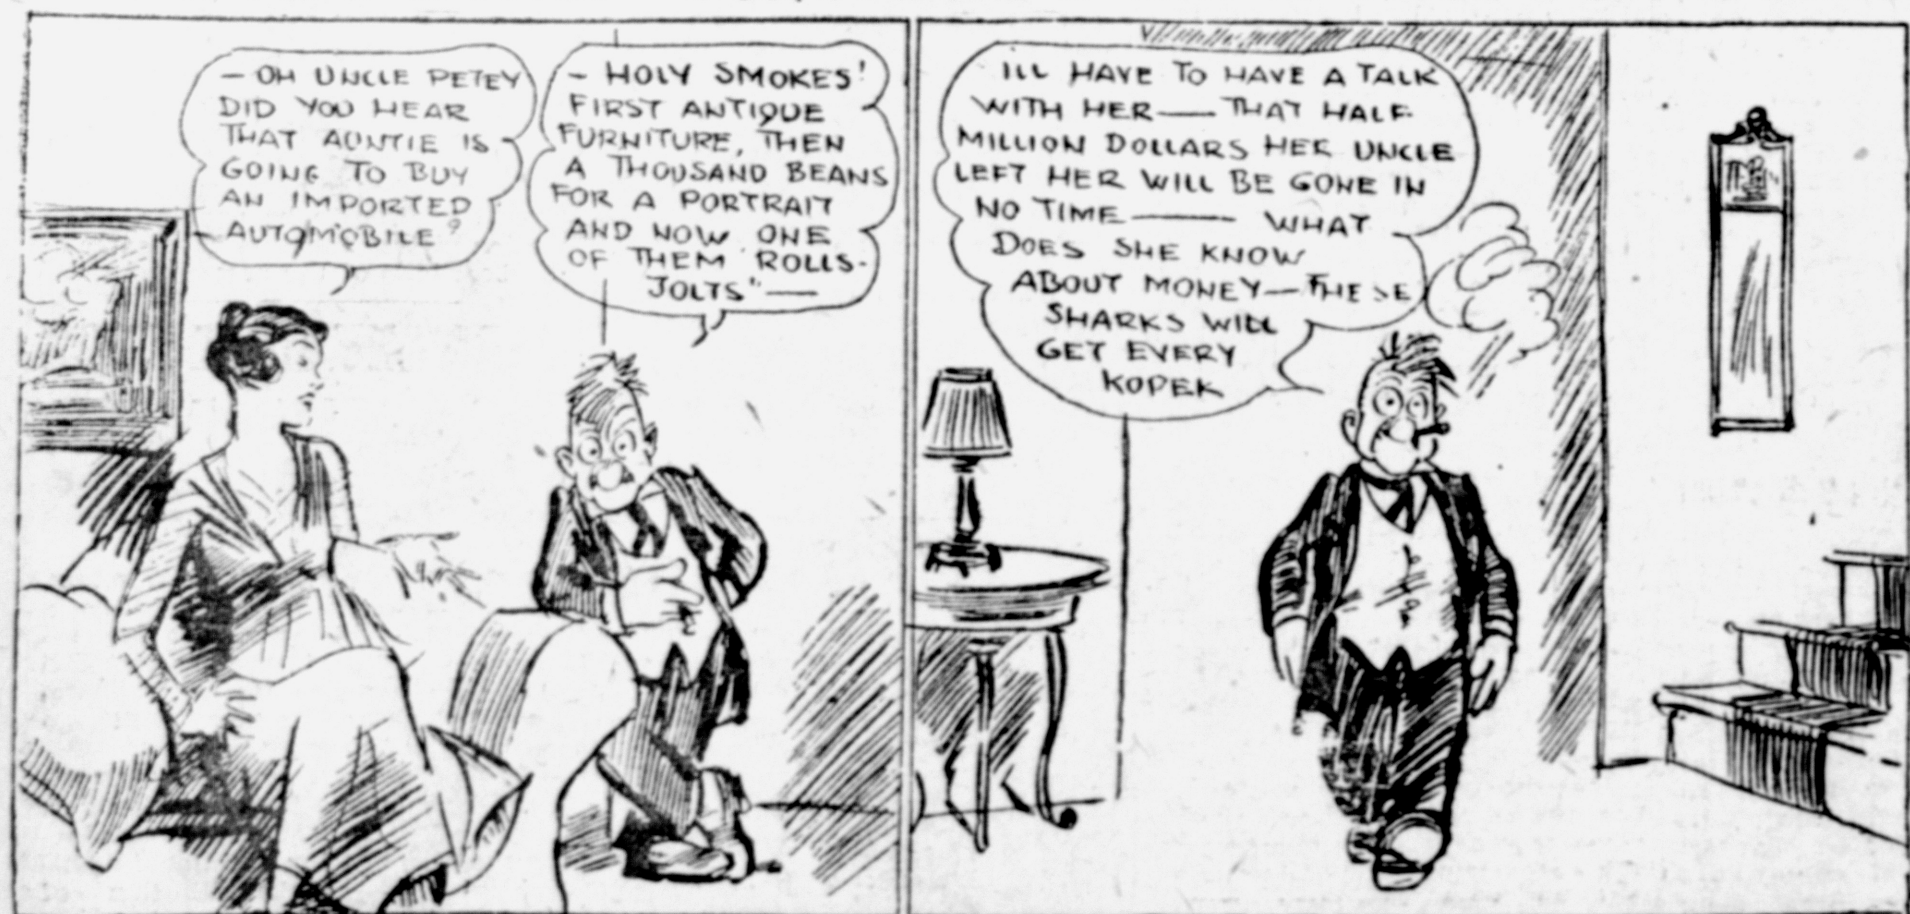

Getting away from the cold, bad weather, business responsibilities, care and worry, and out into the glorious sunshine and semi-tropical atmosphere of California where you can rest, change and rejuvenate, will do you a world of good.

You'll be surprised when you compare the cost with the cost of remaining at home. Think what this will mean to you, when you remember that a life which isn't pleasantly spent isn't well spent. Before completing your plans let me explain how you may join a Burlington Personally Conducted Excursion (costs no more—just a part of Burlington Service) and send you a folder telling all about the trip—worth reading even if you don't go.

THREE DEPARTMENTS
LEAGUED IN FIGHT
ON LIVING COSTS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—The department of agriculture, commerce, postoffice and many members of congress are leagued in an effort to check the high cost of living. Their efforts are the direct result of appeals from the public, whose tills are tapped by some of the highest costs on record.

General boycotts, food dictatorship, a food embargo, government price control—all these and more are recommended in an overwhelming mass of messages to President Wilson, cabinet members and congressmen.

While these appeals will not affect the Thanksgiving list, with turkey leading it at 30 to 40 cents per pound, officials hope to make at least a dent hereafter.

Milwaukee Women Join Boycott
MILWAUKEE, Wis., Nov. 30.—Milwaukee club women joined the boycotts in their egg boycott Wednesday when they refused to buy eggs from the Home Economics club, asking that members of the club refrain from buying eggs for the next six weeks.

"Go to it," said A. F. Wynoble, head of a big commission firm. "It will show the people just where the eggs have gone. Like everything else, they have gone to feed Europe."

MARTIN WOULD BECOME LEADER IN SENATE IF
KERN RESIGNS POST

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—Senator Martin of Virginia to succeed Senator Kern of Indiana as democratic floor leader for the coming short session, is the tentative program mapped out by democrats. It was learned Tuesday, should the Hoosier resign that position. It was stated Kern feels the mountainous accumulation of work facing the senate during the coming four months might be too much of a strain on him.

DOES RHEUMATISM BOTHER YOU?

Many Doctors Use Musterole

So many sufferers have found relief in Musterole that you ought to buy a small jar and try it.

Just spread it on with the fingers. Rub it in. First you feel a gentle glow, then a delicious, cooling comfort. Musterole rids the twinges, loosens up stiffened joints and muscles.

Musterole is a clean, white ointment, made with oil of mustard. It penetrates to the seat of pain and drives it away, but does not blister the tenderest skin.

It takes the place of the mussy, old fashioned mustard plaster.

Musterole is recommended for bronchitis, croup, asthma, pleurisy, lumbago, neuralgia, sprains, bruises, stiff neck, headache and colds of the chest (it often prevents pneumonia).

THE OBLIGATION OF ABUNDANCE

Prosperity is a relative term. The American idea is that it means having money. But even in the sense of wages and profits, prosperity is not a fixed standard, for the value of money depends upon what it will buy. And thus it is well not to make too free with the "easy money" of flush times, but rather to measure the money by its buying value and account ourselves rich according to our purchasing power.

But money is not true prosperity. It is merely an agency with which we have more acquaintance in times of prosperity. Prosperity must be counted in terms of life. Are we free, in health, comfortable, safe, entertained, fed, happy?

As a nation America today is blessed as no other. Its people are the children of good fortune. They have escaped the destructive collision between incompatible lines of high-speed civilization. What they deserve for keeping out, or what for not getting in, is known of God, but not of men. To us is known but the wonderful fact that in this calamity of the nations we have been spared and seem not to have lost the favor of a beneficent Providence.

Let us, however, be neither proud nor arrogant. The call to duty may come, or we may be chided for having been deaf to its appeal. We may be even as the beast whose master fattens it for the slaughter. Never have we had more to be thankful for—if we are right. Assuming that we are, that guidance has been true, let us not assume that our bounty is no better than our deserts. Let us be broadly and humbly and generously thankful. With most of the world suffering, He will not be pleased with any message of gratitude that is satisfied with self and unmindful of the obligation that accompanies abundance. Good cheer must go round the world or it reaches Heaven.

WOMEN WORKERS ON THE FARMS

The sight of women doing agricultural labor used to be considered an un-American one. It was thought that our chivalry would not permit this form of feminine toil. A dispatch from Great Falls, Montana, though, tells how many women are helping their husbands thresh their grain. Help is so scarce that on many farms the wives and daughters and sisters are busy all through November at this task. This is evidently a typical condition that could be duplicated in many other localities.

In districts where there is a large alien population, the sight of women working in the fields is no novel one. The peasants of Europe are used to field labor on the part of both sexes. Their women come over here far stronger and more wholesome than American girls, indicating that they are none the worse for their laborious toil.

Any family can get along where the women are willing to take hold with their own hands at the work of cultivation and harvest. It is easy to see how the foreigners pay off the mortgages on their farms. But it does not follow that the American born woman must thereby be expected to take off her apron and put on the overalls of a farm hand.

In the newly arrived immigrant family, the wife may be doing the very best thing when she gets out and helps her husband gain his first foothold. No doubt there are many American born women who are doing just the same, and it is vastly to their credit. The objection to it is not so much physical as educational and domestic.

On the health side most women would be better for outdoor work, if they took time to break into it gradually, but it is just the same question as whether married women shall leave their homes to work in factories and offices. If they are to spend their time digging and delving for money, things at home must go undone. The cookery will be at loose ends, and the children ragged and untrained. It is quite possible to pay too high a price even for a good bank account and an un-mortgaged home.

LIFE IS BETTER
IN THE OPEN

The sparkle and triumph of a great city are tremendously impressive, but they are not life in the best sense. Haste and ambition are fatal to reflection. There is no time for appreciation. Thrills are substituted for the calm strength of big emotions. The rest and even movement of the country are better soul food.

But the real city is not the city of light and color that dazzle and betray. The real city life is not that found in theaters and hotels. One glimpses the real thing from the elevated, in the windows of tenements and cheap apartments. Three hungry babies flash by, followed by a gaunt woman hanging a disreputable wash on a fire escape. An old man's head protrudes, gasping for air. A girl of school age, dirty-handed, washes an anemic babe. Beyond, a boy and a goat, two beasts, peer from a dreary window.

That is the real life of a metropolis. The proud city is a woman, silk gowned, with wretched shoes and filthy undergarments. These tenement folk are the cave dwellers of civilization.

Why they live there is the greatest human mystery, for the land is broad, the streams are generous and the earth is rich. Perhaps to destroy human inertia would be a greater achievement than to wipe out crime. It is possible to hold him who steals a wholesome thing in less disrespect than him who putrefies in honest filth.

A city is not unlike an individual. It must be fed, clothed, housed; it must work, study, it must even play. It has its business side, its aesthetic intelligence and its religious soul. Its normal condition is one of sane activity and cheerful contentment. That is why it must survey and analyze itself, and keep all functions in healthy operation.

An essential element of successful co-operation is the ability of individuals occasionally to surrender immediate personal advantage to the demands of the larger, lasting community good.

Out of the Mouths of Kids

Who can tell the working of children's minds or how all unwittingly, we may make ourselves appear unjust in our dealings toward them?

This was brought home to Mr. Hewitt the other day as he took his young hopeful, aged 6, for a constitutional. The youngster was evidently thinking hard, for he was silent—which was unusual.

"Daddy," he said, looking up suddenly, "I think I want to get married."

"Do you, my son? And who to, may I ask?" answered the proud parent, looking at him.

"I want to marry granny."

"Do you, indeed? And do you think I would let you marry my mother—eh?"

"Well, why shouldn't I?" retorted the tender logician. "You married mine, didn't you?"

Overparticular
A negro porter, nearly 80 years old, was arrested on some trivial charge, for which he was later discharged. It proved, during the trial, that he had never seen the inside of a court before, and the bustle of events greatly dazed and embarrassed him.

As he stood up when his name was called, the clerk sang forth:

"Do you solemnly swear that the testimony you shall give in this case shall be the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth, so help your God?"

The negro started back, gasping. Then he turned quickly to the bench.

"Mr. Briles," he said, for he knew his honor from boyhood in an unofficial capacity, "Ise perfectly willin' to tell de truf, but mus' I be all cotehed up datter wal, in case I might want to git des a step or two offin' de road? Hit don't give a man no leeway, suh."—Case and Comment.

Freedom

Dickie, who had been reading industriously for an hour, suddenly encountered a phrase in his book that immediately aroused his thirst for knowledge.

"Pop," he said, "when is the freedom of the city given to a man?"

Father hesitated not in imparting the desired information.

"When his wife goes to the country for the summer," he said.

DAILY TRAVELETTE

(By Miknah)

AGRA

Agra is a city of tombs. It is the shell of a vanished glory, that withered leaf of one of the most ornate and gorgeous flowers that ever bloomed in the Orient. It is the city of the tombs of kings, of the tombs of conquerors, of the tombs of beautiful women and the tombs of memories of hopes. It is interesting in a mild way today, but it is only by linking the ruins as they stand with the picture of what they once were that you get the full flavor of Agra.

Agra is known the world over as the city that holds the Taj Mahal, the most beautiful and perfect specimen of the strange architecture of India. The Taj was built by an Oriental despot for the tomb of his favorite and best loved queen; it is said to have been built after specifications gleaned by the monarch in a dream in which he visited heaven. The result was such as to make the idea not wholly ridiculous, for the Taj by moonlight seems like a bit of another world.

Akbar the great and magnificent, the conqueror of all India, was the man who made Agra his capital and made Agra a city. He built with a lavish hand, with the care-free recklessness of an Eastern potentate. He had no parliaments to haggle with over appropriation measures; what seemed good in his own eyes he did, and the people paid. He built the Pearl of Mosques, built it of pure white marble, with airy white soap-bubble domes whose rocky weight is so beautifully upheld and proportioned that it seems as light as air. He built a palace of red stone, with provinces. An Oriental despot has certain advantages over a European king when it comes to making marriages of state.

Two generations of Akbar's descendants ruled in Agra after him, but gradually the scepter of real power slipped from the hands of the line. Now there is little left but a dusty beauty, a memory and a tomb.

MANY IN LA CROSSE
TRY SIMPLE MIXTURE

Many La Crosse people are surprised at the QUICK action of simple buckthorn bark, glycerine, etc., as mixed in Adler-I-ka. This simple remedy acts on BOTH upper and lower bowel, removing such surprising foul matter that ONE SPOONFUL relieves almost ANY CASE constipation, sour stomach or gas. A few doses often relieve or prevent appendicitis. A short treatment helps chronic stomach trouble. The INSTANT, easy action of Adler-I-ka is astonishing. Hoessler Bros., druggists.

Persis was alone when Thomas entered. Not till the last lingering tinge of gold had deserted the west, would Joel venture to leave the room barricaded against the hostile element. But at any moment now he might think it safe to risk himself down-stairs, and knowing this, Thomas resolved to waste no time in preliminaries.

"How's your sister and the children?" Persis asked, shaking hands and returning to her sewing. She offered no excuse for continuing her work, nor did Thomas wish it. There was a delicious suggestion of domesticity in the sight of Persis sewing by the shaded lamp while he sat near enough to have touched her—nearly fingers, had he but won the right to such a privilege.

"Nellie's well. Little Tom's eyes have been troubling him since he had the measles, but the doctor thinks it's nothing serious. Look here, Persis, I was wondering as I came along if you knew that I chawed."

Persis' lids dropped just in time to hide a quizzical, humorous gleam in her eyes. The rest of her face remained becomingly grave. "I may have suspected it, Thomas."

"It's a filthy habit," he said, inordinately relieved by her astuteness and yet with wonder.

She looked up from her work to explain. "It's this way, Thomas. Sometimes when I go into the store I catch sight of you before you see me, and maybe one of your cheeks will be all swollen up as if you had the toothache. Then you slip into the back room, and come out in quarter of a minute with both of 'em the same size. It's a woman's way. Thomas, to put two and two together."

Thomas' face was radiant. That weight was off his conscience. He had a right to proceed to more agreeable disclosures, undeterred by the fear of practicing deception on the nobles of God's creatures. It contributed to his joy that Persis had known of his weakness, and yet had not crushed him with her contempt. She had not even expressed agreement when he had called chewing tobacco a filthy habit.

"Persis," he began in his deepest tones, "I was thinking as I came along—"

The stairs creaked and Persis interrupted him. "There's Joel. It makes it hard for him when the days are getting longer all the time. He'll be glad when we have to light the lamps at five."

Thomas was in a mood to wish that the village of Clematis basked in the rays of the midnight sun. He forced a smile to his reluctant lips as Persis' brother entered and magnanimously put the question, "How do you find yourself tonight, Joel?" though he knew only too well the consequences to which this exposed him. There was no surer passport to Joel's favor than to inquire about his health if one was also willing to listen to his answer. The people who said, "How do you do?" and immediately began to talk of something else were the objects of Joel's detestation, while his grateful affection went out to the select few willing to hear in detail his physical biography since their last meeting. Joel experienced the same satisfaction in describing the pains in his abdomen or an attack of palpitation that a bride feels in exhibiting her trousseau.

"I've nothing to complain of, especially when you take into account that I'd have been six feet under the sod by now, if I hadn't discovered that sunshine was poison to my constitution. It sort of draws all the vitality out of me, same as it draws the oil out of goose feathers. I'd have improved a good deal faster," Joel continued with sudden irritation, "if it hadn't been for Persis' carelessness in leaving the door open. You'd think that I had a good life insurance in her favor, the way she acts. As the Frenchman said 'Defend me from my friends, I can defend myself.'"

"I've always understood that sunshine was about the healthiest of anything," interrupted Thomas, reddening angrily at the criticism of Persis. "And if you want my opinion, you look to me a good deal like a plant that's sprouted in the cellar."

The last thing Joel wanted was another's opinion. He continued as though Thomas had not spoken.

"And besides that, I've been eating too much meat. Science tells us that the human body is pretty near all water. Don't that show that most of the needs of the body can be supplied by drinking plenty of water?"

Thomas shook his head. "I'd hate to try it. When I'm hungry, I would not swap a good piece of beefsteak for a hoghead of water."

"You eat too much meat," Joel, extending an almost transparent hand toward his sister's caller, shook a bony forefinger in warning. "You are undermining your constitution. You're shortening your days by your inordinate use of animal food."

"Me! Why, bless you, Joel, I never was sick a day in my life."

"Well, that don't prove that you never will be, does it? And anybody with half an eye can see that you're not in good shape. Flesh don't show nothing. A man who weighs two hundred is the first to go under when disease gets hold of him. Your color, as like as not, is due to fever. How many times a day do you eat meat?"

"Well, always twice, and sometimes—"

Joel groaned. "Rank suicide! Rank suicide just as much as if you put a revolver to your head. It sounds well to talk about prime cuts of beef and all that, but when you come down to cold facts, what's meat? Dead stuff."

Some Cake:
Here's June Caprice's favorite cake recipe: "Take two pints of finely granulated sugar and one pint of butter. Stir these to a light cream and add one pint bowl of sweet milk, if the milk drivers aren't out on strike. Then take a pint of sifted flour and a half pint of sifted cornstarch and four teaspoons of baking powder. Put these into a flour sieve and sift twice. Beat the whites of twenty-four eggs to a stiff froth and stir them lightly into the cake mixture. Bake in one loaf, and be careful that it does not brown too much. The cake will be sufficient for a party of thirty."

Director Henry Otto has adapted a camera trick, by which a dark curtain seems to close or open a scene. It is the device serving to explain a time-lapse, in a picture without the use of sub-title. The illusion is a perfect one.

William V. Mong, the Universal director and actor, is at work on a pretty Christmas story. Mr. Mong is a firm believer in the value of thoroughly well constructed one, two and three-reel releases, and thinks they are going to be in bigger demand than ever.

Here's one told on Jack Mullah, Universal leading man who recently became a father. With friend wife he went a shopping. The desired purchase was made, and the family started down the street. Everyone they met laughed. Finally after Mabel Taliaferro, while doing some exterior scenes for "The Sunbeam," was dressed in rags sitting in an automobile on Eleventh avenue, New York. A crowd of street urchins gathered about her. Said one: "Gee, she's a movie actor." Said another: "She's not! Look at her clothes." A small and anxious voice piped up from the midst of them: "Betcha she's been pinched by the Gerry society! Let's beat it!" And they all beat it.

Douglas Fairbanks has a Pullman sleeper scene with cowboy companions in his next movie, "The Matrimaniac."

That's all. It ain't reasonable to talk of building up life out of death."

Persis' quick ear had caught the sound of stealthy movements in the adjoining room. She wove her needle into the seam, a practice so habitual that probably she would have done the same if the lamp had exploded unexpectedly, and crossing to the kitchen door, opened it without warning. A small untidy woman, the shortcomings of her appearance partly concealed by the old plaid shawl that enveloped her person, dodged away from the key-hole with a celerity perhaps due to practice.

"It just struck me that there was more voices than two," she explained with self-accusing haste. "And I did not want to intrude if you was entertaining company. Sounded to me like Thomas Hardin's voice."

"Yes, it's Mr. Hardin. Will you come in, Miss Trotter?" Persis' invitation lacked its usual ring of cordiality.

"Oh, I wouldn't want to intrude."

CITY OFFICIALS INDICTED

INDIANAPOLIS Ind., Nov. 30.—Dennis J. Bush, street commissioner of Indianapolis, and five other persons were indicted by the Marion county grand jury Wednesday charged with conspiracy to defraud and cheat the city by false claims and false payrolls.

This Simple Laxative
A Household Necessity

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin Should Have a Place in Every Home.

Constipation, or inaction of the bowels, a condition that nearly everyone experiences with more or less frequency, is the direct cause of much disease. When the bowels become clogged with refuse from the stomach, foul gases and poisons are generated, and unless the congestion is quickly relieved the system becomes weakened and most susceptible to attack.

Various remedies to relieve constipation are prescribed, but many of these contain cathartic or purgative agents that are harsh and violent in their action and shock the system. The most effective remedy is the combination of simple laxative herbs with pepsin that is sold in drug stores under the name of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

The Hon. John D. Keister of Brandywine, W. Va., who has represented his district in the State Legislature for six years, writes that he uses Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin and finds it a splendid laxative, easy to take and mild, yet positive, in its action, and that it should be in every household for use when needed.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is sold by druggists in all parts of the United States and costs only fifty cents a bottle. It contains no opiate or narcotic drug, does not gripe, and traveling a block or more they came across a friend, and he laughed. When questioned as to the cause of the mirth, the friend pointed to a sign on the front of the newly purchased baby carriage which read: "Our own cake, $22.50."

But I says to Bartholomew this very day, I'm going to run over to Persis Dale's after supper," says I, "to see if she can't let me have some pieces of white goods left over from her dressmaking." You're doing a good deal in white this time of the year, as a rule," concluded Mrs. Trotter, a greedy look coming into her eyes.

"Mis' Trotter, I always send back the pieces, even if they're no bigger than a handkerchief. If anybody's going to make carpet rags out of the scraps, I don't know why it shouldn't be the people who bought and paid the goods."

REQUIEM HIGH MASS SAID IN CAPITAL FOR SOUL OF FRANZ JOSEF

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—Some of the impressive pomp and regal splendor of the formal court of Hapsburg was displayed Wednesday at the solemn requiem mass said for repose of the soul of the late Emperor Franz Josef of Austria-Hungary. President and Mrs. Wilson joined with the diplomatic representatives of the several powers and neutral nations to pay tribute to the memory of the dead monarch. The scene was one of the most brilliant Washington has ever witnessed. Grouped in the large auditorium of St. Patrick's church were many high army and navy officials in resplendent dress uniforms, supreme court justices, cabinet and other high government officials, military and naval aides of the ambassadors and ministers present and members of congress. Cardinal Gibbons, in red cap and magnificent robes, assisted by many priests and acolytes, officiated. Mgr. Russel chanted the mass.

ENGLISH COLONIES TO HAVE VOICE IN PEACE TERMS IS THE PROMISE

LONDON, Nov. 30.—All of Great Britain's colonies and the dominions forming part of the British empire will have a voice in determining what shall be the terms of peace in Europe, according to a promise made in the house of lords Wednesday by Lord Islington, parliamentary under-secretary for India.

DONALD SENDS TINY CROCODILE FROM THE WILDS OF FLORIDA

MADISON, Wis., Nov. 30.—This announcement may be a trifle premature, but—within the next few years the department of state is going to have a rapid, unerring and soft peddling messenger that will have the world cheated.

This messenger is a scaly, squirming, specimen of the crocodilian reptile known to science as the "Alligator Mississippiensis." At present he is about eight inches long, a year old and very bashful and reticent. Secretary of State Donald sent him up from Florida where he has been sojourning for a week or so.

Department employees have great hope for him.

"We have accumulated considerable information about alligators and find that persistence and kindness can result in their domestication," said Chief Clerk Comerford. "We have great faith in 'Alfalfa,' which is the alligator's name, and hope to have him running errands and chasing office pests very shortly."

The reptile eats nothing but grilled, sole with Thomas Island dressing and barks like a dog when thirsty until given a shot of Wine of Cardui.

PROPOSES COMPROMISE FOR FEDERAL OWNERSHIP

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—Government control and guarantee of both dividends and interest on bond issues as a middle position between private and government ownership of railroads and a possible solution of the present problem was suggested Wednesday by Representative Simms at the hearing of the Newlands committee.

MISS WELTE WEDS IN SPARTA CHURCH

SPARTA, Wis.—(Special.)—Walter Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Smith of Angelo, and Miss Angelica Welte, daughter of G. Welte, residing two miles south of Sparta, were united in marriage Wednesday morning at St. Patrick's Catholic church, at 9 o'clock. The nuptial High Mass was celebrated by Father Flock.

Club is entertained

The Advance club was delightfully entertained Tuesday evening by the Misses Lila Bartlett and Gladys Morse at the latter's home on Benton street. It was a musical evening, a study on American Women Composers, many of whose selections were sung by Mrs. Fanchon Parmelee Green of Chicago. The program was both instructive and entertaining and the evening was an enjoyable one for all present.

Sale and Dinner

The dinner and parcel post sale given by the Catholic ladies in the Teasdale building, was a very successful affair, and netted the church a neat fund. One hundred and twenty dollars were cleared from the parcel post sale and one hundred and forty-five dollars from the dinner and candy sale, making a total of two hundred and sixty-five dollars.

Justice Matters

The case of A. R. Printz, Little Falls, against David Poquette, Oliver Snow and Claude Schermerhorn, who he claims stole eight of his geese, will be tried in Justice Lamson's court Friday, Dec. 1. Printz claims he followed the men after his geese were found missing. A search warrant was taken out and the premises of the accused men, searched but the geese were not found. The case will be tried Friday.

Dope Thief Jailed

David Metzke of Milwaukee is serving a thirty days' sentence in the county jail in this city, having been brought here Monday afternoon from Tomah by Deputy Sheriff Johnson. Metzke obtained entrance to the W. H. Bosshard drug store, through a rear window. He broke open a glass case containing drugs and stole several boxes of heroin. Policeman Preston located the man at the American House and arrested him. He was tried before Justice Hollister in Tomah Monday, pleading insanity.

Sparta Pair Wed

Word was received in the city today from La Crosse of the marriage of Miss Lottie Taylor and Mr. William O. Sherwin both of Sparta, which took place Tuesday, Nov. 28. The announcement came as a surprise to everyone, nevertheless their many friends in Sparta extend congratulations and good wishes.

Miss Taylor is a music teacher, having a large class of pupils, both in this city and surrounding towns. Mr. Sherwin is a carpenter by trade. They will be at home to their friends after Dec. 15th at North Benton street, Sparta.

Theater Enclosed

The exterior work on Otto Bell's new theater on South Water street, is about finished, and the interior finishing will be pushed along rapidly as Mr. Bell hopes to have the building completed and ready for use by Christmas time.

A large family party will celebrate Thanksgiving in the good old fashioned way at the home of Mrs. D. C. Beebe on Water street, when the family will be gathered together. Covers will be laid for twenty-three.

Local and Personal

Miss Mabel Thorburn, formerly of this city, now residing in Minneapolis and attending the university of Minnesota, has been pledged to the Alpha De Dianti sorority.

Miss Nettie Clute visited with Rockland friends several days last week.

Mrs. J. C. Hewitt will spend the Thanksgiving holiday with friends in Leon.

W. N. Fitzgerald of Milwaukee, inspector of state institutions, was in the city the last of the week, looking over state property.

Arthur Hewitt and family from Milwaukee were expected to arrive last night to spend Thanksgiving with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Hewitt.

Perry Mason, Miss Belle Mason, Mrs. Esch, Mrs. Gross and Miss Gladys Morse drove to Neillsville on Monday, returning that night.

Mrs. Alice Beeks, Chicago, and Miss Vera Thorburn visited their mother, Mrs. Ed. Thorburn, who is a patient at a hospital in La Crosse, on Sunday.

Mr. Spiedel of Fond du Lac, is a guest at the Frank Kemp home.

Mrs. Peterson has returned to her home in La Crosse, after a week's visit at the home of her son, A. A. Anderson.

Ex-Governor J. O. Davidson of Madison, president of the state board of control, was in the city on Tuesday, a guest of Dr. and Mrs. J. F. Brown at the state school.

George Metcalf of Leslie, Mich., has been a guest of his cousin, John H. Jones.

JOHN TONEAFF EXPLAINS THE BALKAN TANGLE

Former Bulgar Soldier with Company M Takes Pen in Hand to Enlighten
Tribune Readers

TOUGH ON RUMANIA

They "Find in Tight Corner" Is Thesis of the Soldierwriter at Fort
Sheridan

(Not least among the soldiers from La Crosse who are impatiently waiting at Fort Sheridan for their release and return to their homes is one John Toneaff of Company M, former Bulgarian soldier who went south with the troops because he felt he owed service to Uncle Sam, since Uncle Sam gave him a job in the postoffice. Some of Private Toneaff's lively correspondence has been printed from time to time in the TRIBUNE—Mr. Toneaff having large experience in matters military, both in the Balkans and in Texas.

Although his recent writings have been about the near-war along the Rio Grande, Private Toneaff is well-versed in the European situation. His views, therefore, in the accompanying special correspondence, will no doubt be welcome to the friends who sent him a bushel-basket full of mail when he complained, in one of his letters to the TRIBUNE, that it was hard on a poor soldier without a family when all his pals got mail and he didn't.

According to Mr. Toneaff's accompanying note, the text of his discussion of the Balkan situation is "The Rumanians, incidentally, find in tight corner." With this as his thesis, the TRIBUNE's correspondent says some highly interesting things.—EDITOR.)

Dear TRIBUNE:

Whether Rumanians think to have a progressive? No! I don't think so.

The Teutons just having plan, to release Russian Army, second time, to going in Transylvania. To make a trap, for Roumania, to injoin in this war, in side of Allies.

Whereas, deceased Francis Joseph, only course movement, how to surpartition, this gold land. Do you know, that Roumanian, land it is a very rich of the any part, in all Europe? Shepherd, of the Roumanian, Nation, no probably to injoin in this rigorous war. Just she was find, very good moment, to make a great big business, of the either side. And who side will be victor perhaps to give her one corner territory. But she want much to be a large country.

King Ferdinand, necessary, to be saver on own country. In spite of that, I am indeed sure in six weeks will be breaking, same as Belgium Serbia also. Shepherd on Roumanian, Nation, think that a year 1913, or three years ago, that he find Bulgaria, when her was around, of the a four countries. A namely, Greece, Servia and Monto-Negro Turkey also.

In substance, she was conqueror on 360,000, Bulgarian population, almost first rich territory, of the Bulgarian country. Also King Ferdinand, as he thinking ha! I have majority in a territory, of more than 90,000 square miles, and Russia will give province of 17,000, miles, and 2,400,000 population, belonging to Russia. Also, two-thirds of the people, are Roumanians; in Transylvania. The eastern part of Hungary, a land 21,000, square miles, and having a population of 2,500,000, 60 percent Roumania claims, are Roumanians; in Bukowina, an Austrian crownland of 4,000 square miles and 1,000,000, population, more than half said to be Roumanians, and one part of the Bulgarian, territory. Roumania will have these provinces, if Allied victory. Ho! powerless, Roumania, you know, find in three, rigorous, eagles nails. As you never can't find saving you gold country, I have sorry for this rich land. I wish to explain what Roumanian Army, would not like, to keep seriousness, upon this war. The 7,000,000, millions, population, it is a possessor of the 85, rich lords; They keep all Roumanian rich land. Also that is a nothing. Who peoples, need for a land, or for farmers for the cultivation, and can to make owns decorours life. They go to the lords, to want land, hes give them 10, 20, acres land how much farmer like to get. This lord give them 20 acres, on farmer, as give him order, for the cultivation, his part half first; Lastly farmer will cultivation fit himself.

As I went Roumanian school six months, and I understand very well; The people would not wish to keep seriousness upon war, I have heard myself that many, peoples would like to be belong to Austria. Do you think, that this war will finish? In spite of that, if more two little country to injoin in this Europe war? I don't think so.

Only will worry of the a nothers sides, for the disperse them is own little countries; I think you know that who army, fighting in strange land, they keep very seriousness upon anything. And I suppose they will be anytime victorious.

All the trouble concern for little fishes, the big fishes, will a bsorption, little fishes there. Incidentally, some a Roumanian, gentleman, decided to refute this correspondence, I am here and I will explain, many, insufficiency, for Roumanians, administration, or for King Ferdinand and Domnului Francescu Prince of Roumania.

Thes two, who give order, an officers, for be torturing, on poors soldiers, almost, to cutting out; I was eye-witness, one officer as cutting out one soldier to own saber, in left-shoulder. However, I was many, curious to understand; what penalty will give him hes martial court. As I think that will dismission onese for ever. They, is give him penalty only three weeks, in guard house. But poor soldier, is a now parilized. I am indeed sure, that Roumanian Army never think to keep seriousness, upon this war;

I am Very Truly yours,

J. TONEAFF.

The Effects of Opiates.

THAT INFANTS are peculiarly susceptible to opium and its various preparations, all of which are narcotic, is well known. Even in the smallest doses, if continued, these opiates cause changes in the functions and growth of the cells which are likely to become permanent, causing imbecility, mental perversion, a craving for alcohol or narcotics in later life. Nervous diseases, such as intractable nervous dyspepsia and lack of staying powers are a result of dosing with opiates or narcotics to keep children quiet in their infancy. The rule among physicians is that children should never receive opiates in the smallest doses for more than a day at a time, and only then if unavoidable.

The administration of Anodynes, Drops, Cordials, Soothing Syrups and other narcotics to children by any but a physician cannot be too strongly decried, and the druggist should not be a party to it. Children who are ill need the attention of a physician, and it is nothing less than a crime to dose them willfully with narcotics.

Castoria contains no narcotics if it bears the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.

Genuine Castoria always bears the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher

Cataract Deafness Cannot Be Cured
by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure cataract deafness, and that is by a constitutional remedy. Cataract Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a running sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result. Unless the inflammation can be reduced and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Many cases of deafness are caused by catarrh, which is an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. Hall's Catarrh Medicine acts thru the blood on the mucous surfaces of the system. We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Catarrh Deafness that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Medicine. Circulars free. All Druggists, 76c.

HER THANKSGIVING INVITATION

BY CHARLES FELDER WILLIAMS

(Copyright, 1916, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

She was alone. The impatient snapping of the kitchen fire and the murmurous monotone of the rain were the only sounds that broke the dreary silence of sullen gray November. And it was Thanksgiving day.

"The boys," her two middle-aged sons, were in the town somewhere. They would be home to dinner and away again. She hoped they were having a good time.

There was a rap at the door. Grandma's eyes were red and she would rather not see any one just now. "Come in," she finally called, not knowing what else to do.

"All alone?" cheerily sang out the visitor, an old-time friend.

The aged woman turned her back to her caller for an instant and furtively wiped her eyes. But there were tears in her voice when she said tremulously, "I've been visitin' all the mornin' with the old folks I used to know."

The visitor looked at her keenly. Could Grandma Burke's mind be wandering as the neighbors said it sometimes did? But the words were not so irrelevant as they seemed. The friends of memory were the only company she had on Thanksgiving Day.

"You haven't anything to do today, have you?" asked the visitor.

"Nothin' but git dinner," was the reply. "I'm gittin' a nice dinner for the boys."

"Can't the boys cook?" was the abrupt question.

"They ken when they go campin'," said Grandma, "but they don't like to cook at home."

"Don't like to," the friend repeated with a drawl that meant many things she didn't like to say. "Any way," she added, "I've come to carry you away for the day."

Grandma's back straightened up just a notch. "Where?" she panted, looking scared. She couldn't remember when she had been away from home at meal time.

"Out to sister Jane's," was the reply. "You know mother lives with her, and you two can talk over the times when you were girls. We're going to have a real old style Thanksgiving and I know you'll enjoy it."

It was just what grandma had been longing and yearning for—to be invited out where she would be installed in a comfortable rocking chair and visited with as if she were still a human being and not just a run-down old plow horse.

"I'd like to go," she began, "but John and Harry—"

"Oh, don't worry about John and Harry," interrupted the visitor. "It'll be a lark for them to get their own dinner for once. You'll go, won't you?"

"I hain't got nothin' to wear," was the next excuse. "My bombazine is so old-fashioned."

The bombazine had been most prudently provided years before by her husband for her shroud, but, with equal prudence, she had worn it to his funeral, and had continued to wear it on the extremely rare occasions that required anything better than a cotton wrapper.

"It's just the thing for an old-fashioned woman," comforted the tempter. "You always look nice in it, long, soft folds. Won't you go?"

A guilty look crept over grandma's face, but she finally said, "I never done such a thing before in my life, but I will go just this once."

"That's right," smiled the friend.

CHAS. BEYSCHLAG,
Prescription Druggist, 503 Main.

"Be ready by 11. We are going early to help with the dinner."

Back to the kitchen grandma tottered. Hurriedly and nervously she scrubbed herself, and smoothed her scanty hair to the sheen of white satin. The antiquated bombazine had never made her feel very gay, and now as she drew it on and folded a snowy kerchief softly about her seamy neck, she felt as if she were going to her own funeral. She would certainly look very sweet in her coffin. When she was all ready she looked at the clock. It was only 10. She would have time to begin dinner for the boys.

Soon her trembling hands were mixing the pastry. But her thoughts—they were playing truant, traveling step by step backward over many Thanksgivings to the time when her good husband was alive and eleven children were all at home.

At length the pumpkin was prepared and in the crust, and grandma was carefully putting the pies in the oven, hoping they would be good. Suddenly, as if seized by the sharpest pain, she cried, "Oh—o—o—o! If I hain't clear forgot the spices! I'll hev to stir 'em in now!"

It was not long before the spicy aroma began to diffuse its fragrance through the house. And what a difference it made! It was like the spirit of Thanksgiving. The fire crackled merrily. The dull varnish on the old chairs and cupboard put on a brighter luster. The tea kettle began a real anthem, and—at last—grandma's heart warmed up, too, and began to sing it. For the first time that day she was thankful for her home and her children, who, she said, didn't know how dreary it was to be left all alone on Thanksgiving day.

She was just singing the turkey—fine plump yellow skinned one her farmer son had sent by parcel post—when a rapping on the front door nearly caused her to drop it into the fire. For five seconds she stood dazed, and it took another rap to recall her wandering thoughts.

Near the door of the living room hung a picture of the entire family—mother and father and sons and daughters—all standing in three straight rows. As grandma passed it she noticed every eye gazing at her with keenest scrutiny. Even her former self was watching her present actions with curious attention. But all she did that they could not see was to pull down her sleeves, take off her gingham apron and open the door.

"Are you ready?" asked a pleasant faced boy.

"Are you ready?" cried her friend's voice from the well-filled automobile at the curb.

"I declare I can't go," said grandma, quietly.

"Oh, why," called the well meaning woman. "I phoned mother you were coming. She will be dreadfully disappointed."

"The children would think I was crazy if I ran away on Thanksgiving," grandma quavered with one of her sweet smiles.

"Too bad," was the rejoinder, and the car whizzed away, leaving the solitary figure standing in the doorway, a picture of heroic resignation.

"The idee of my leavin' the boys today," she mumbled as she closed the door. "If it wain't for carin' for me John would be married and have a home of his own. And Harry come home just to eat turkey with me."

This reminded of her dinner, she started for the kitchen. As she passed the picture she stopped. And lo! where before only cold stares she now saw smiles. To any eye but hers they might not have been visible: to hers they were real, and she smiled back in gladness that she was still able to give pleasure to her children.

"If I could only hev some of them around me jest for today," she thought with tremulous lips. "It ain't real Thanksgiving when you're all alone."

The house seemed lonelier than ever now. But the pies were still baking and they soon cut short the spiritual seance and called the grandma back to her duty.

By and by, after a long, tedious series of processes, the turkey was ready for the oven. Suddenly there was the noise of footsteps on the back porch. The door opened and to grandma's great surprise in came the boys. John drew a package from his raincoat pocket. "Here's some letters for you, maw," he said gently. "Guess every last one in the family has written."

The old woman seized the letters eagerly and pressed one after another to her withered lips. It was "real Thanksgiving" now.

SIMPLE HOME TREATMENT FOR SWOLLEN VEINS

If you or any relative or friend is worried because of varicose veins, or bunches, the best advice that anyone in this world can give is to get a prescription that many physicians are now prescribing. Ask your druggist for a small bottle of Moore's Emerald Oil (full strength) and apply night and morning to the swollen, enlarged veins. Soon you will notice that they are growing smaller and the treatment should be continued until the veins are of normal size. Moore's Emerald Oil is a powerful, yet harmless germicide, and results are guaranteed.

MARINA SURVIVORS SAY SINKING WAS WANTON MURDER

NEW YORK, Nov. 30. — "Cold blooded murder" was the description given Wednesday by survivors of the torpedoing of the British steamer Marina by a German submarine. Forty of them, all horse tenders, arrived on the Tuscania from Glasgow. Jesse T. Hancock, Richmond, Va., printer, was one of those who termed the action of the German commander "murder."

SOCIETY

ISABEL MAJOR A BRIDE OF THANKSGIVING DAY

At three o'clock this afternoon Miss Johanna Isabel Major becomes the bride of Mr. Arthur Bernard Hickisch, the ceremony being performed at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph H. Major, 1102 South Fourth street.

The attendants include Miss Lilah, the bride's sister, as maid of honor, and Miss Rose Hickisch, sister of the bridegroom, and Miss Helen Major, cousin of the bride, as bridesmaids. Marcellus Hickisch is his brother's best man, and the groomsmen are Oliver Weinandy of Cochrane, Wis., and Arthur Voss. The ringbearer is little Ernestine Hickisch.

The ceremony is to be performed in the living room of the Major residence, one corner of which was banked with ferns and palms. Wisteria chrysanthemums in tall wicker vases add a touch of color to the scene. The officiating clergyman is the Rev. Julius T. Gamm of the German Lutheran church.

Immediately preceding the ceremony Miss Lilah Major will sing "O. Promise Me," accompanied on the piano by Miss Lucy Bauman, who will also play the Mendelssohn Bridal March. The bride will be given in marriage by her father.

The bridal gown is a charming creation of white satin, with oriental lace and pearl trimming, made with court train. The bridal veil is worn in cap effect confined with sprays of smilax and white sweet peas, and the bride carries a shower bouquet of white roses and white sweet peas. The maid of honor's gown is of pink crepe de chine and silver lace, with garniture of iridescent bead trimming. Her flowers are pink roses. Miss Hickisch wears a gown of yellow charmeuse trimmed with real lace, and carries an armful of yellow chrysanthemums. Miss Helen Major's gown is of blue silk voile, with corsage of satin. Yellow roses are her flowers. The little ringbearer wears a dainty frock of white organdie and lace, with pink sash. She carries the ring embedded in rose petals in a dainty basket of white, the handle of which was adorned with blue rosebuds and pink ribbon streamers.

Following the ceremony dinner is to be served the guests, who will number about fifty. Serving were eight girl friends of the bride, the Misses Emma Zeisler, Louise Pruett, Lucy and Selma Bauman, Clara Miller, Dora and Josephine Semsch and Selma Francksen.

The bride's table was centered with a large wedding cake, trimmed with smilax and surrounded with five bud vases, each holding a single white rose. Cut glass vases of yellow and white mombretia adorned the other tables.

Out-of-town guests here for the marriage include Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Cooper and son Arthur of Chicago; Miss Helen Major, St. Paul; Oliver Weinandy of Cochrane, Wis.

Mr. and Mrs. Hickisch will be at home at their new home at 107 South Seventeenth street, after February first.

COURT NULLIFIES STATE BAN UPON BENZOATE OF SODA

MADISON, Wis., Nov. 30.—(Special.)—Sections of the Wisconsin pure food law that conflict with federal laws cannot be enforced. This, in effect, is the substance of a decree signed by Federal Judge Arthur L. Sanborn, here on Thursday, in the case of the Curtice Brothers Co., Rochester, N. Y., against George J. Weigle, state dairy and food commissioner. The decree is a sweeping victory for the plaintiff. Under the ruling, food products containing benzoate of soda and manufactured in other states, cannot be barred from sale in Wisconsin. In his decree Judge Sanborn held that as shipment of the Curtice products into the state was made in interstate commerce, the federal rather than the state food laws would apply to the products. The case dates back to the Dr. Wiley controversy. U. S. Holds Benzoate Harmless At that time several states passed laws holding that the use of benzoate of soda as a preservative was an adulteration and made its use illegal. Then the federal government made an investigation and a government proclamation was issued holding that benzoate of soda was harmless. The states that had passed laws let down the bars with the exception of Wisconsin and one or two others. This state continued to enforce the statute.

The Curtice company filed its suit in February, 1916. On Nov. 2 Judge Sanborn handed down his decision in favor of the plaintiff, but it was not until Thursday that a decree was signed and made public.

The decision settles all disputes over the Wisconsin food laws, which cover adulteration and misbranding. It leaves wholesalers, jobbers and retailers free to deal in such goods regardless of whom they were purchased, the injunction restraining Mr. Weigle from interfering or threatening to interfere with such sales whether they be made by the case or by the jar.

The misbranding arm of the statute was ruled upon in the Corn Products label case. Now comes the ruling on the adulteration end of the law—a ruling that favors the manufacturers.

In his decree Judge Sanborn permanently enjoins Commissioner Weigle, his agents and district attorneys of the state from enforcing or attempting to enforce sections 4.600, 4.601, 4.601e or 4.601f of the Wisconsin statutes "in so far as they do, or either of them does, or may be construed to declare as an adulteration or illegal the use of benzoate of soda as a preservative ingredient in any of the plaintiff's said food products, which have been sold and brought into the state of Wisconsin from another state, and have been or are being sold, shipped, consigned, offered or exposed for sale in said state, or had in possession therein with intent to sell, either in the said outer wooden container or the said immediate container thereof, either at wholesale or retail, for use or consumption within said state, or have been or are being furnished in the customary manner by restaurant keepers to their guests for consumption at their dining tables or stands in such open immediate container thereof, the bottle or jar aforesaid, in which such product was shipped into the said state of Wisconsin."

"LUCKY" BALDWIN FEEDS MANY CHICAGO, Nov. 30.—Eight hundred penniless and hungry persons lined up at the Cathedral mission here Thursday to feast themselves on a turkey dinner such as the wealthiest in Chicago will sit down to. POTTERY-PRINT EXHIBIT CLOSED FOR THE HOLIDAY

In observance of the national holiday, the art exhibit of pottery and prints at the library was not opened on Thursday. It will re-open Friday, however, during the afternoon and evening, and will be open during library hours Sunday.

Friday evening, at 8 o'clock, there will be an interesting discussion of pottery open to the public, in which the meanings of the Rookwood marks, the glazes, and a brief history of pottery in the United States will be discussed.

It is also announced that in the near future Miss Rena Angell, art director of the normal school, will present a discussion of pottery from the craftsman's angle, demonstrating with explanatory discussion how pottery is built up.

Because the number of prints which has been obtained for the present exhibit is three or four times as many as can be exhibited at once, the Art Association on Thursday issued a warning that all interested persons should not fail to visit the exhibit this week. Next week an entirely new set of prints will replace those now on exhibition.

PRICE DEMANDS PRACTICALITY IN RELIGIOUS WORK

"Too many people get religion, religion should get them," Dr. W. G. Price, evangelist, told a large audience at the Universalist church on Wednesday evening. He took for his evening topic, "Putting the Real in Religion."

"Religion is not to enjoy," Dr. Price said. "It is to use. It is not meant to get people ready to die but fit to live. Why fit a man for heaven and then send him into the world to live in hell?"

"We must have the right spirit. The preacher who refuses to speak or work with another because of theological differences is no better than the layman he condemns for a like spirit. We must bury the hatchet and uplift the Cross."

"We must kill the unwritten law that the person faces when he leaves jail having fulfilled the written law. I charge the church with blood of the girls of shame in that after the first mistake it turns its back on them and forces them into a life of misery."

The subject of Dr. Price's sermon on Thanksgiving day evening will be "Facts vs. Theory in Religion."

MANY FOWLS ARE SOLD AT ANNUAL ELKS' TURKEYFEST

Three hundred and forty turkeys, geese and ducks were disposed of to a crowd of about 300 Elks attending the annual Thanksgiving Turkeyfest at the lodge rooms Wednesday.

The assemblage was one of the largest and pleasantest of recent years. Practically all of the fowl was gone before midnight, and many of the antlered herd left for their homes laden with from one to a dozen turkeys, geese, etc. It is estimated that $1,500 was added to the Elks' charitable fund by the turkeyfest. A turkey lunch was served during the evening.

HISTORY PAGEANT H. S. OBSERVANCE OF THE HOLIDAY

The best pageant ever seen at the high school—was the verdict of everyone present at the Thanksgiving pageant presented in the auditorium Wednesday night after the mass meeting.

Although Thanksgiving day was the main theme, the pageant was concerned with every occurrence of great historical importance in the development of the nation. The idea originated in one of Miss Desmond's English classes, and Miss Desmond carried it out with the help of Miss Nepird, instructor in American history and many other members of the faculty.

Pocahontas saving John Smith, the first Thanksgiving of the Pilgrims life among the rich planters, the signing of the emancipation proclamation, and the slave life in the south are some of the things which were shown. Maude Robbins sang "The First Thanksgiving Day" in the scene in which preparations were being made for the feast for the Indians.

The melting pot showed the different elements which went to compose our nation. A Swedish folk dance, a minuet, and a country square dance made great hits with the audience.

The different occupations were shown by a parade across the stage. Policeman, student, suffragette, soldier, clergyman, workman, farmer were all there.

The French nation was represented in all its glory by three of Miss Renard's French students who held a delightful conversation in French for the benefit of the audience.

The last part of the pageant was a representation of all the states by high school girls wearing sashes with names of the states printed upon them. The girls came on the stage in the same order that the states entered the union. After they had all been grouped on the stage, the whole school sang America.

BIG STRETCH OF MARSH SET AFIRE BY ENGINE SPARK

Started, it is believed, from a spark from a Burlington road locomotive, the large marsh land between Onalaska and Midway burned on Wednesday night. Hundreds of La Crosse people were attracted by the glare, which spread over the entire northern sky. Aside from a few hay stacks, no property was destroyed.

Hose company No. 3 prevented a serious fire at the home of Frank Muntz, 530 South Sixteenth street on Wednesday night, when a chimney caught on fire. The chimney burst in the attic of the residence. No damage was done aside from smoke.

The same company fought a prairie fire near the League hall park at 4:30 Wednesday afternoon.

ASK RELIEF FOR GERMAN WOMEN AND CHILDREN

Urgent appeals for help for the widows and orphans of German soldiers and sailors are being made by the American Relief committee.

Contributions of any amount will be welcomed and will be forwarded by the committee in full, no reductions whatever being made from the funds contributed. The Honorable James W. Gerard, United States ambassador to Germany, will personally supervise the distribution of the relief funds and see that every penny is applied to relieving the suffering and hardships under which the widows and orphans of German soldiers are struggling.

Checks and money orders should be made payable and cash sent to either John D. Crimmins, treasurer, 21 Park Row, New York, or Charles G. Dawes, 220 South State street, Chicago.

TWENTY THOUSAND POUNDS OF FISH MADE IN A HAUL

STODDARD, Wis.—(Special.)—The record in fish catches was made here recently when Louis Talley and Fred Rick, professional fishermen, landed a catch of 20,000 pounds. The haul brought the men $1,200. Talley and Rick are the inventors of a new ice chisel.

The bachelor revels in being made to "feel at home" when out; and the married man revels in being made to feel as if he were out, when at home.

AMERICAN AVIATOR WINS "ACESHIP" IN FRENCH AIR CORPS

By HENRY WOOD
WITH THE FRANCO-AMERICAN SQUAD ON THE SOMME FRONT, Nov. 4.—(By Mail.)—The American aviation corps has just gained a new distinction. Adjutant Ralph Lubery, an American, has been designated an "ace."

An "ace" is an aviator who has brought down five enemy aeroplanes, that is, five whose destruction has been completely and officially confirmed. There are just twenty-one "aces" in all the French aviation service—and Lubery is Number 21. Incidentally, that Number 21 represents the exact number of German aviators which the Franco-American flying squadron has brought down, according to official count. Many more have probably been downed, but French official lists take cognizance only of machines whose destruction has been officially confirmed.

The American squadron, as it is now constituted, in addition to two French officers, captain George Thénault and Lieut. De Laage, consists of: Lieut. William Thaw, Adjutant; Didier Masson and Ralph Lubery; Sergeants Charles Johnson, Lawrence Rumsey, Dudley Hill, Mr. Savelka of Madison, Connecticut, Robert Rockwell and James MacCamel; Corporals Soubiran, Kairland, and Frederick Prince.

The corps has had three killed—Chapman, Tiffin, Rockwell, and Prince; and two wounded—Lieut. Thaw, (now in America), and Bolzy of Texas, who is injured for life.

LOVE DEFIES HIGH COST OF LIVING

NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—The high cost of LOVING hasn't kept young America from it. Love, it would appear, laughs at the high price of eggs. Figures gathered from all corners of the country by United Press show that more people have fallen for the two-can-live-cheaper-than-one since eggs and other products began to skyrocket than ever before.

It's true on Manhattan, it's true in Minnesota, in Boston, Chicago and San Francisco. They just will marry, regardless.

Take Boston: One thousand and seven trustful pairs signed contracts in October to fight the cost of living together. In the October of a year ago, only 927 had the courage. Thus far this month the number has been 900, while in the whole month last year, only 866 would take the chance.

Or Chicago: All records are being broken in Chicago. In October, 1915, the number was 2,833; October, 1916, it was 2,936. In November, 1915, it was 2,936, already 3,952 have been issued this November.

Look at these figures, respectively for October, 1915 and 1916, and November, 1915 and 1916:

Manhattan, 3,061, 3,650; 3,020, 3,191.
Dallas, Texas, 271, 309; 242, 216.
St. Paul, 271, 334; 306, 246.
Washington, 420, 424; 472, 369.
San Francisco, 603, 512; 655, 470.
Los Angeles, 599, 600; 586, 590.
Portland, Ore., 147, 179; 165, 168.

St. Louis, 627, 728; 671, 712.

San Francisco explains there has been no decrease so far as the union of native sons and daughters is concerned, and that last year's high total was due to the propensity of exposition visitors to get married.

THREE SHOCKS REGISTERED

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Nov. 30.—Three distinct earthquake shocks about 3,000 miles distant from Cleveland, were registered Wednesday by instruments at St. Ignace college here. They came at 10:25, 10:27 and 11:05 p. m.

STREET CAR HIT—ONE DEAD

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Nov. 30.—One dead and a score injured one seriously, is the toll of a grade crossing accident here late Wednesday night when a street car was struck by a Baltimore & Ohio southwestern freight train on Ninth street.

TODAY'S BEAUTY HELP

You can keep your hair at its very best by washing it with this simple, inexpensive shampoo, which cleanses the hair and scalp thoroughly of all the dandruff and dirt and leaves a clean, wholesome feeling. Just use a teaspoonful of canthox dissolved in a cup of hot water, afterwards rinsing thoroughly with clean water. One finds that the hair dries quickly and evenly, is unstreaked, bright, soft and fluffy, so fluffy in fact that it looks more abundant than it is, and so soft that arranging it becomes a pleasure. All scalp irritation will disappear and the hair will be brighter than ever before.

YOUTH AUTHOR GETS IN TANGLE

Dane Ashley is informed that he has inherited from a distant relative an old place in a small village, no great distance from the city. Dane is a successful young author of romantic and emotional nature, and he goes out in his machine to inspect the property.

From that time, in the early part of the story, until the very last moment of the play, the suspense and mystery of this masterful story will hold you spell-bound. Ethel Clayton and Carlyle Blackwell have never been given such splendid roles and have never before appeared in the roles given them quite as well as they do in this piece, "The Madness of Helen." The Bijou theater announces this feature for tonight and Wednesday.

THE MONTH IN MUSIC

One of the most humanly interesting airs that Verdi ever wrote is the "My Paternal Hand," from "Macbeth." It displays at their best the composer's wealth of melody and rare gift for passion. In reviving it for his December Victor record Mr. Caruso has risen to the topmost heights of his infinite vocal resources.

John McCormack offers an exquisite record of "To My Beloved" from "Don Giovanni," his singing of which aroused Chicago opera audiences to intense enthusiasm. His other December record is the tremendous European success, "The Sunshine of Your Smile," a lovely love lyric accompanied by violin obligato. By reviving "Dreaming of Home and Mother," Evan Williams will please older hearers and acquaint younger ones with songs their mothers sang and loved.

Geraldine Farrar gives us a characteristically serene and beautiful rendition of that loveliest of 18th century Welsh songs, "All Through the Night," and Mabel Garrison sings an old favorite, "Happy Days," with charming expression, assisted by a violin obligato of haunting sweetness by Howard Rattay. One of the best things Alma Gluck has done is "The Mother's Prayer," into which she throws herself with vividly warm and compelling pathos. Her husband, Efrim Zimbalist, is well represented by two charming violin classics, a simple and lovely composition by Beethoven, and perhaps the best known work of the Belgian composer, Gosssec.

If we are all more musical than we get a chance to be, as 'tis said, we certainly have an unusual opportunity for musical enjoyment in Kreisler's rendering of one of Tchaikovsky's most beloved works. The lovely melody of the romantic Russian song, the perfection and individuality of Mr. Kreisler's genius, with the happy accompaniment of the quartet of strings make a musical "vision of delight" for each and all.

Novel Instrumental Numbers
So popular has Hawaiian style music become, that December Victor offerings include a famous old Hawaiian melody "Waiu Lululu March," and a medley march introducing no less than four popular Hawaiian airs, rendered by those accomplished players on Hawaiian guitars, Louise and Fere. In addition, the popular song list features three vocal numbers with three vocal numbers with Hawaiian flavor: "O'Brien is Tryin' to Learn to Talk Hawaiian," and "My Own Iona," both with splendid ukulele and guitar accompaniment, as well as the lovely "My Lonely Lola Lo" by the ever favorite Sterling Trio.

A title that should appeal to anyone whose patriotism is not of the "50-50" variety is that of the "Victorious America March," rendered with the crashing verve and brilliancy of the superb Conway's Band. The martial rhythm of another great and popular march will be also yours on the reverse, which presents the "De Molay Commandery March," named for a famous Knight Templar commandery. "Kathleen Mavourneen"—what thoughts they name arouses, and how sweetly the immortal love song is given by the violin, "cello and piano of the McKee Trio? They also favor us with that other beautiful and universally popular Irish melody, "Killarney" by Balfe.

The double record of "To a Wild Rose" and "Souvenir Poetique," by Michael Guskoff, displays the extraordinary talent that has made this rising young violinist a soloist with the leading orchestras and concertmeister with the Russian Symphony orchestra. The unique distinction of being the first successful comic opera written by an American composer is enjoyed by "The Little Tycoon" instrumental "gems" from which are presented by the Victor Concert orchestra.

Siren Strains on Dance Music
It is no longer necessary to depend on the amateur pianist, who though good natured and self-sacrificing, did not always keep good time, and generally grew tired just as the dancers got fairly started. The Victrola never tires, never plays out of time, tune or rhythm and always affords the latest and most popular, dance music. Its splendid and comprehensive December list of dance records comprises two of the "Blues" hits which the west and south seem to have gone crazy over; two fox-trot medleys of popular songs, and a medley waltz, all of which are played with infectious verve by the Victor Dance orchestra.

Big Hits in Popular Songs
Everybody can find something to sing or hear late in the month's fine list of 18 current song successes, in which all possible appeals are delightfully featured. You will revel in such musical comedy successes as "Give Me All of You," the waltz hit from "Flora Bella," sung by Alice Green and Edward Hamilton, or "Bachelor Girl from Brazil," as gayly up-to-the-minute as its name, belies tuneful "Babes in the Wood."

CHANCELLOR HAS BIRTHDAY

BERLIN, via Sayville Wireless, Nov. 30.—The Imperial Chancellor Von-Bethmann Hollweg was given a brief but cordial and touching demonstration by Berliners on the night preceding his sixtieth birthday. Huge crowds gathered at the gates of the garden of the chancellor's palace in Wilhelmstrasse and finally entered the garden singing patriotic songs.

LOWESTOFT RAIDED AND VESSEL SUNK, IS BERLIN REPORT

BERLIN, Nov. 30.—German naval raiders near Lowestoft sunk an enemy vessel, captured its crew and returned safely, an official statement declared Tuesday.

The German naval squadron which made the raid returned without sighting any enemy vessels except the "watching ship" which was sunk and whose crew was taken prisoners.

LONDON, Nov. 30.—The British admiralty reports the armed trawler Harval missing. It is presumed this is the "watching ship" mentioned in the German statement.

THE HASKIN LETTER

Canada In War-Time

IV—"They Also Serve"
BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN
MONTREAL, Nov. 30.

REMARKABLE insight into the effect of war upon the social organization—its influence upon class, the family, marriage, home life, the status and activities of women; its product of drunkenness, insanity and disease, of heroism, sacrifice and leadership—may be had through the workings of the Canadian Patriotic fund, which is subscribed by the whole dominion to care for its soldiers in the field, and administered by the women of Canada, organized into Women's auxiliaries.

This patriotic fund is neither a charity nor a bank, primarily. It is a battle, fought by the women of the commonwealth. For its homes and wives and children. It not only pays money to soldiers' wives, but it stands between them and the creditors who are constantly trying to make victims of them; it provides for the children of those who have died, gone insane, or become morally irresponsible; it saves insurance policies from lapsing, gives legal and medical aid, and above all, visits with friendship and advice every soldier's home in the Dominion. In a word it keeps the social machinery intact and running despite the shock and damage of war.

Under the direction of Miss Helen R. Y. Reid, the administration of the Montreal branch of the patriotic fund is a remarkable example of organized feminine efficiency. It pays out seventy thousand dollars a month, receives about five hundred applications for aid each day, none of which are turned away for lack of funds, keeps in personal touch with every one of its cases, and does all of this without spending a dollar of its capital for service. The work is done by volunteers and on the interest from funds in bank.

The most interesting fact brought out by this work is that the war to Canada, is a war fought by the poor and the rich. This is both proven by record and admitted by these women, who have personal knowledge of every soldier's home. Canada's army is an army of laborers and artisans, led by the sons of the wealthy families. The middle class of storekeepers and professional men is not in the ranks, because it cannot afford to be.

To the laborer's family, the war means no great material sacrifice here in Canada, for the Canadian soldier and his family get about three times as much as the British Tommy. The Canadian soldier is paid a dollar and ten cents a day, while the British private gets less than twenty-five cents. The family of the Canadian soldier has three sources of income. The wife receives a separation allowance which is twenty dollars a month in case of a private; she receives compulsory assigned pay of fifteen dollars a month, which may be increased to twenty if the husband so desires, while the patriotic fund, which pays according to need, adds an average of fourteen dollars and a half to the monthly income of each family. The woman is never left with much less than fifty dollars a month, while the husband is no longer at home to eat and drink his share of it. So the family of a man whose earning capacity is twelve or fifteen dollars a week, is materially better off as long as he is in the ranks.

Now take the case of the storekeeper, the young lawyer or other professional man. The earnings of this class run from twelve hundred to four thousand a year, and most of them are carrying from two to ten thousand dollars worth of life insurance. Many such men have applied at the Patriotic Fund to learn what help their families would receive in case they went to the front, and when they learned the amount, frankly stated that they could not afford to go. The case of a young lawyer who was earning four thousand a year, and carrying eleven thousand dollars worth of life insurance is typical. He could have had a commission as lieutenant at $2.60 a day, and an officer needs most of his own pay. His wife and four children would have had between fifty and a hundred dollars a month to live upon—about one-sixth of what they were accustomed to—his insurance policy would have lapsed, and in case of his death, the family would have had only a pension of a couple of dollars a day. There is little use in going out to fight for your family if by so doing you may leave it in dire want for life.

So labor and capital fight the war, and the third estate stays at home. Likewise the wives of the rich care for the wives of the poor. It is interesting to note that in this way the old personal relation of feudal times between the aristocrat and his henchman is revived by war, and the middle class is forced by circumstances into its traditional position of isolation and independence; and also that in this new and growing country, the middle class, which is the true conservative force in any state, is conservative, and strengthened by the weakening of the other two.

No one who understands the facts is blaming men of the middle class for not enlisting more generally. It is recognized that if they did so, it would be necessary to declare moratoriums for rents, insurance policies and many other obligations, the machinery of business would be knocked out of gear, and Canada's contribution of war supplies thereby seriously impaired.

One of the serious problems which confronts the administration of the patriotic fund is bigamy, a veritable epidemic of which has been brought to light by this work. It is found that a surprising number of men came to Canada leaving a wife in the old country and took another one here. Now both wives apply for aid when the husband enlists, and a nice ethical and legal question is presented. The Canadian women, in many cases, have chosen to recognize the Canadian wife, even though she is not really married. "Unofficial wives" these women are called, and as long as they live proper and domestic lives, they receive the same aid as the legally wedded.

These women of the patriotic fund have practically constituted themselves keepers of the public morals. Thousands of women, left alone with small sums to live upon, have fallen into debt, and it is a common practice for the creditor to try to victimize them under these circumstances. Loneliness and the unusual emotional atmosphere of the war naturally promote this evil, which threatens damage to family life that it would take generations to repair. The women of the patriotic fund stand in militant determination between any woman whose intentions seem to be honorable, and the dangers that beset her. They act as intermediaries between the women and their creditors, often saving the former from undesirable associations, and they have abundant volunteer legal aid to support them.

In spite of these efforts, immorality has increased somewhat, as has drunkenness, while many soldiers' wives have died and an unfortunately large number gone insane. In these cases, the patriotic women step in to save the children. Caring for these motherless families constitutes a separate department of the women's activities. Constant efforts are made to have the children adopted into good homes, and meantime they all well provided for.

These women are not merely defending and supporting the homes of the soldiers; they are looking into the future. They realize that with the best manhood dying in battle, the nation that really wins the war will be the one that gives the best care to the rising generation. Hence, the women are preaching health and sanitation in all of the homes they visit; they are offering prizes for school attendance; they are vying with each other in reducing the infant mortality of their respective wards.

"They also serve who only stand and wait!"

That will do as a tribute to women in other times who stayed at home and perhaps knitted a sock or two. The Canadian women also serve, not by waiting, but by working with as much generalship, energy and fighting determination as the men in the trenches.

TURKEY PRICES GO UP

ST. PAUL, Minn., Nov. 30.—In the face of threatened boycotts and a grand jury investigation of food prices in progress, turkeys and other food jumped in price Wednesday. Turkeys advanced from 33 to 35 cents. Creamery butter jumped two cents to 40 cents wholesale. "Yes, there's a shortage of these things—quite a shortage. Certainly if the big ladies don't want our wares, why we will return them or maybe hold them until Christmas. But you know there is a shortage," one merchant said.

"Hard work tends not only to give us rest for the body, but what is even more important, peace to the mind. If we have done our best to do and to be, we can rest in peace."

DRY REFERENDUM TO BE PROPOSED IN LEGISLATURE

Evjue of Madison Will Staat Battle in the State Over Liquor Question, He Says

NEEDS 51 VOTES TO PASS

Evjue Counts on About Thirty Members of Assembly and Help of the Socialists

MADISON, Wis., Nov. 20.—That a hot battle is going to be waged at the coming session of the legislature over the liquor question was intimated Wednesday when Wm. T. Evjue, newly elected member of the assembly from this district, announced that he will introduce a bill providing for a statewide referendum in Wisconsin.

For Vote in 1918

The bill will provide for the submission of the question of the abolition of the liquor business in Wisconsin to a vote of the people at a general election to be held in November, 1918. In the event of the ratification of the bill by the people of the state it is proposed that the law shall go into effect either in July, 1919, or January 1, 1920.

"At the coming session of the legislature I shall introduce a bill providing that the question of statewide prohibition be submitted to a vote of the people at the general election in 1918," said Mr. Evjue Monday. "By submitting the question at that time it can be done with little expense and obviate a special election on the subject. Wisconsin can no longer ignore this question and I believe that it

POLLARD PRESSES CLOTHES WHILE NOT GRIDIRONING

BY HAMILTON

(United Press Staff Correspondent.)
NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—Fred Pollard, the negro youth who chopped and hacked to pieces every means of defense that could be devised by Yale and Harvard, and who stands today as one of the most remarkable football players of a decade, is working his way through Brown university. Pollard runs a little tailor shop, and in moments when he isn't humping away at his studies or hammering down the field for Brown in football contests, he presses the students' suits.

Pollard is only a youngster as a football player in the bigger colleges, but already he has pulled a team to championship classification by his own efforts.

He chose Brown for his fame merely because it looked better to him than did several other universities, including Dartmouth. A brother of Pollard's formerly played football at Dartmouth and Pollard's inclinations were first toward the Hanover, N. H., school.

As a vindication, it may be noted that Brown coaches knew nothing of Pollard's football ability until he asked permission to try out one afternoon. They asked him if he ever played football and he informed them he had learned a few points about the game in Chicago, his home. He was given a uniform, told to get busy, and the rest is history.

After the Yale game Pollard was acclaimed the most remarkable half-back who had opposed the Blue, this year, and when he was turned loose against Harvard and did the same things over again, it was firmly established that he is one of the greatest football players the east has ever seen.

This is Pollard's second year as a big league gridiron performer. He still has a year to menace Harvard, Yale and the other pretentious eleven.

Besides being several men as a football player Pollard is something of a track performer, specializing at the hurdles.

DID YOU KNOW IT FROM THE GOOD JUDGE'S LOOKS?

IT seems as though most men had just been waiting and waiting for W-B CUT Chewing. Naturally it should be that way. Tobacco satisfaction and not a big chew is what tobacco lovers want. You couldn't get it the old way—cheap tobacco and excess sweetening. But rich tobacco, shredded, lightly salted, that's what makes tobacco satisfaction—that's why W-B CUT is winning all this popularity.

DUBUQUE BUSINESS MEN VISIT DE SOTO

DE SOTO, Wis.—(Special.)—Auditor A. H. Nonemacher and a clerk from the Spahn & Rose Lumber company of Dubuque, Iowa, were in the village the latter part of the week helping Manager Joseph Osborne take an inventory of the stock.

Scalds Hand
Miss Clara Cox, the seventeen-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Sox, severely scalded one of her hands while pouring boiling water into a coffee pot. Several fingers are badly burnt.

Dr. F. H. Borecky of La Crosse was a guest Sunday in the Fred Morrell home in this village.

George Andrews of Marshalltown, Iowa, father of Dr. Andrew, and Master Willis are here on a visit in the Andrew home.

Miss Sophia Yttrie, who has been visiting her sister, Mrs. Fortner at Viroqua, returned to her home in the Redmond community Monday.

Mrs. Panthea Mills, proprietress of the Hotel Midway at Ferryville, went to Minneapolis Saturday for a visit among relatives.

Irene Young of Boscobel is a guest in the C. H. Lawrence home at Ferryville.

Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Dederick of Perryville are now located at Cotulla, Texas, where they will spend the winter.

John Diamond, trustee of the E. C. Enerson bankruptcy stock, came to the village Friday and closed out the stock. M. C. Olson of this village bought the drugs, while Jeweler Ness of La Crosse bought the jewelry.

Mrs. J. D. Hovarth of Lawrence Ridge spent several days in a visit with Soldiers Grove and Readstown relatives recently.

Dredge Foreman Henry Ringenbach, who has been employed on the Burlington works at East Winona, is at home with his family in this village.

Mrs. Elizabeth Gordon of this village went to La Crosse to visit in the P. S. Campbell home and while there became a member of the La Crosse Woman's Relief corps.

Mrs. Gordon used to be an active member of the W. R. C. in this place.

Kennard Dyer is at Madison visiting his brother Porter and other relatives in the capital city.

Mrs. Bertha Mellem left Sunday for La Crosse to visit her son Robert and family.

Mrs. J. H. Sterling, Ferryville, is spending the week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Marks of Retreat, prior to her departure to her new home in Prairie du Chien.

Mrs. C. A. Andrews of Kansas City, Mo., arrived in the village Sunday to accept a position as type setter on the Argus.

OFFICIAL CALIFORNIA COUNT SHOWS STATE IS WILSON'S BY 3,773

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Nov. 30.—President Wilson's plurality over Charles E. Hughes in California in 1916 will go down in history as 3,773.

This was made certain Wednesday following announcement by Secretary of State Frank Jordan of the final official count of ballots cast at the recent presidential election.

RICKARD SAYS JESS IS IN GOOD SHAPE

CHICAGO, Nov. 30.—"Willard is in better condition now than he was before the Moran fight," said Ter Rickard here Wednesday as he left for New York. "In six weeks the champion can train up to meet any opponent."

Rickard said reports that Willard is taking too much flesh were not true, and that he is in excellent condition.

He refused to say if any understanding had been reached with Willard. It is believed here that Willard is holding out for more money before agreeing to meet Fulton at Madison Square garden and that Tex is hurrying east to get more money lined up to meet the champion's price. Tom Andrews at Milwaukee still has a chance to land the fight for the Cream City.

ONLY TWO GAMES IN WEST FOR TURKEY DAY

CHICAGO, Nov. 30.—The pluck and turkey meat were bidding hard for attention Thursday but judging from the slim football schedule and the fat gobblers rapidly disappearing from butcher shops, turkey meat is going to win.

In the west only two games of note were to be staged, Nebraska taking on Notre Dame at Lincoln, and Kansas receiving Missouri at Lawrence.

The latter game is for the Missouri valley conference championship, Kansas having unexpectedly bumped Nebraska for the place as runner-up against Missouri.

Notre Dame and Nebraska are pointed for a wonderful game. Despite their recent defeat by Kansas, the Corn Huskers are confident of repeating their last year's defeat of the Catholics.

Kansas is given the edge over Missouri and has a victory over its ancient enemy last year to bolster up its hopes. Despite an early season drubbing at the hands of Illinois, the Jay-hawkers stand undefeated in the Missouri valley conference.

ANDREWS HARD ON TRAIL OF WILLARD

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Nov. 30.—Tom Andrews, who hopes to stage a ten round bout here in January between Jess Willard, champion, and Fred Fulton, expected to meet Tom Jones, Willard's manager, in Chicago Thursday to talk "cold turkey." Andrews has already made an offer to Jones for the bout. Tex Rickard, New York promoter, is competing with Andrews for the fight.
